LAUGHTER.

BY M L. SKINNER.

Laughter! 'tis a pleasant theme,
Bringing back a happy dream
Of the days of early youth,
Days of innocence and truth.
"Ha! ha! ha!" I hear the ringing
Of that mingled laugh and singing,
Though, since then, long years have fled
Like a shadow o'er my head.

Laughter! 'tis hope's living voice,
Bidding us to make our choice,
And to cull from thorny bowers,
Leaving thorns and taking flowers.
"Ha! ha! ha!" sweet hope is singing,
All her choicest blessings bringing;
We'll be wise receiving gladly,
How could we receive them sadly.

Laughter! 'tis a mother's joy,
To behold it in her boy,
When he first essays to run,
Independent type of fun.
"Ha! ha! ha!" the babe's done creeping;
Falls may change that laugh to weeping;
But fond Hope will say "cease crying,"
Laugh again and keep on trying.

Laughter! 'tis a healing balm,
Good to bring a peaceful calm
To the sorrow-brooding soul,
Then, Oh! let it's echoes roll.
Laughter sometimes cheers the drooping,
Holds erect the form that's stooping,
Tends to drive the midst away
That conceals a brighter day.

Laughter, the true "poor man's plaster,"
Covering up each sad disaster;
Laughing, he forgets his troubles
Which, though real, seem but bubbles,
Tells his stories keeps on joking,
As, though poor 'twere not provoking;
And he smiles a parent's blessing
On his loving child caressing.

Laughter! 'tis a seal of nature,
Stamped upon the human creature;
Laughter, either loud or mute,
Tells the human kind from brute.
And the one who never smiles,
Ne'er the tedious hour beguiles;
But repels his friends who can,
More like sullen beast than man.

Arrival of Lieut. Beale and his Party at Los Angelos.

We find the following letter, dated at Los Angelos, Aug. 31st, in the San Francisco Herald.

Edward F. Beale, Esq., superintendent of Indian affairs in California, reached this city on the 22nd instant, via the Cajon Pass. Mr. Beale left Westport, on the frontier of Missouri, May 17th, with a party of fifteen men, (including Messrs. Riggs and Rodgers, of Washington, D.C. Having crossed the Arkansas, the expedition followed up the Huerfeno to its source, and crossed the Rocky Mountains by the Sangre de Cristo Pass, entering the valley of the Del Norte, and reaching Fort Massachusetts in twenty days from Westport, traveling without guide, and most of the distance by compass. The actual traveling time between Westport and Port Massachusetts was seventeen days. Crossing the mountains at Ceuchotepe Pass, Mr. Beale proceeded towards Grand river, fording several large streams, none of which are mapped. One of these streams, the Rio de la Laguna, was a perfect mountain torrent, and for some time baffled the superintendent in his efforts to cross his equipage. At last he bethought himself of the mode adopted by the Peruvians in crossing similar streams, and put it in operation. Attaching a string to a stone—the string being fastened to one still larger, and that to a substantial rope—the stone was thrown across the rapid, and the end of the rope drawn over and made fast to the trunk of a tree. Mr. Beale then fastened the other end of the rope to a tree on the opposite side, this end having an elevation of twenty-five or thirty feet. An iron ring was placed upon the rope, and to this ring were attached the various articles which were to be transported across the river. The ring would slide along the rope to opposite side, and when relieved of its burden would be drawn back; and so on, back and forth, until everything was passed over. The expedition then proceeded to the Uncompagne, a tributary of Grand river, in crossing which one of the pack mules was drowned. This was the first animal lost. The country abounded in game, and they were never a day without deer, elk, or antelope.

Mr. Beale and his party pushed on as far as Grand river, which was found to be swollen by the melted snows from the mountains, and running with such rapidity that it could not be rafted. There was no resource left but to construct a canoe. Cutting down the largest cotton-wood tree that could be found, the men set to work,—and in three days a canoe was completed. In this the baggage was safely passed over the river, with the exception of one load. The firearms and provisions were reserved for the last trip of the canoe, and unfortunately, when near its destination, in consequence of one of the men becoming frightened and attempting to jump out, the canoe was capsized, and its contents irretrievably lost. Half the men were on one side of the river and half on the other, and all the firearms and provisions, except a small quantity of panola, were at the bottom of the river. After deliberating some time, it was determined to send Mr. Heap and others of the party to Taos for provisions and arms, Mr. Beale remaining near the river with the men. Messrs. Riggs and Rodgers accompanied Mr. Heap to New Mexico, and returned to the United States. The superintendent soon found it necessary to remove from the river a short distance to the mountains, where the game was more abundant; and on the third day after Mr. Heap's departure about twenty Utahs came into camp. They were somewhat impudent at first; but Mr. Beale put on a bold face, and knowing that he was wholly in their power, upon their invitation, accompanied them to their lodges. These Indians were all well armed and well mounted, and the valley in which they lived was found to be full of horses, undoubtedly stolen from California and New Mexico.—Having gained the friendship of these Indians, Mr. Beale lived with them upon the most amicable terms, hunting with them, and sharing whatever game was obtained, until the return of Mr. Heap from Taos.

In seventeen days after the accident at the river, Mr. Heap returned, and the march of the expedition was resumed. Grand river was crossed, and here the Indians for the first time exhibited any evidences of hostility. A large band of Utahs returning from a buffalo hunt, had encamped near the river, and their lodges dotted the valley for a great distance. When the superintendent came up the Indians drew their bows, and demanded powder, balls and tobacco. There were at least three hundred warriors, armed with rifles and bows and arrows. Mr. Beale told them that he had nothing to give them, and that, although the Indians were strong enough to kill him and his party, yet, as he was well armed, a great many of the Indians would be killed in return. Many of the savages persisted in fighting; but, after a great deal of talking, wiser counsels prevailed, and the expedition was allowed to proceed.

The Indians for several days hovered about,—apparently with the design of stealing some of the animals; but by keeping his party together, and guarding his animals vigilantly, Mr. Beale met with no loss, and came on to the Avonkaree river. This stream is not put down upon any map. It is a large, deep and rapid river, too rapid to raft, and as wide as the Missouri at Kansas. Here a boat was made of bull hides. A hide boat, you must know, is the safest boat that can be made, and it is also very easily constructed. Two hides are fastened together at the ends and then stretched over a willow frame, shaped to the purpose required. While a wooden boat would have a hole knocked through by the first stone it struck, a hide boat might pound upon the rocks for a long time without injury. A canoe easily upset, but it is very difficult to upset one of these boats. The frame-work, being woven basket-fashion, gives a stiffness to the boat and a symmetrical form, with the precise proportion desired. All the equipage was safely passed over the Avonkaree, and here Mr. Beale found a party of Mexicans in perfect despair as to how they should proceed. They had been waiting 21 days for the water to subside. They dared not turn back, for, in crossing Green river, they had lost two of their men, and they could not go forward. Their prospect seemed gloomy enough until the appearance of Mr. Beale, who conveyed them across the river, and sent them on their way rejoicing. The superintendent then proceeded to Green river, which was crossed in a similar manner as the Avonkaree, and with the same hides, which had been packed upon a mule.

The expedition then pushed on rapidly to Little Salt Lake, where there is a flourishing Mormon settlement. Here the people were found to be in a state of great alarm. Walker, the Utah chief, had made war upon the Mormons, had killed several men, and driven off upwards of 300 head of cattle. He had sent them word that the war was to continue four years, and that he was determined to capture all their horses and cattle. The Mormons had abandoned Paraguna, a beautiful little town, leaving their houses and grainfields in the valley near the lake, and had removed to Parawana, a larger settlement, about six miles distant, in order to give it greater strength. Walker is a remarkable Indian. He is not a chief by hereditary right, but has risen to his present position as supreme chief of the Utahs solely by his own energies. He makes annual incursions into this country, and it is estimated that within the last four years he has driven off not less than two thousand horses.

Leaving the Mormon settlements, Mr. Beale passed through the Vegas Santa Clara, beautiful mountain meadows, covered with fine grass, and containing numerous springs of excellent water, and came down the Santa Clara river to a village of Pah-Utahs. These Indians are the declared enemies of the white race, and Mr. Beale, knowing it was of no use to parley with them, marched boldly to the chief, and demanded that he should guard his horses for the night. Strange as it may appear, the Indians took the superintendent's animals to good grass, watched them during the night, and returned them safely the next morning. I suspect this is first instance wherein a Pah-Utah has neglected to steal a horse when he had the opportunity.

From the Santa Clara to the muddy river, every night the Pah-Utahs were hovering about,—but they committed no depredations. At the Muddy, a great number of Indians had assembled, but not more than twelve were permitted to come into the camp at one time, the rest being kept at a respectful distance. One of these Indians (Pah-Utahs) said that he wanted to see more of the Americans, and begged Mr. Beale to take him along. Supposing he would speedily turn back, the superintendent told him he could go on to California if he would travel on foot; and thereupon the Indian joined the expedition.

Leaving the Muddy river, Mr. Beale marched rapidly to the first jornada (day's march) over the desert. Upon the first jornada the party started at three o'clock in the afternoon, and having traveled as fast as they could, at seven o'clock the next morning reached the Vegas Eretana, a pretty meadow, with a fine stream of water.—Two days more brought them to the second jornada, a stretch of sandy desert, extending from the Amogosa to the Tiokesa spring, about sixty miles. The Amogosa was left at two o'clock in the afternoon, and at four o'clock the next morning every riding animal was so much fatigued that it was necessary for the riders to take to foot. After traveling six hours on foot, from six o'clock until ten, the Tio Mesa was reached.—Tio Mesa is the name of a spring of bitter water, with but little grass about it, and situated in the midst of a frightfully barren country. During all this time the Pah-Utah had kept up with the animals, and came to the Tio Mesa as fresh as any of the party, and there drank a full gallon of the bitter water with evident gusto. There are many melancholy legends connected with the Tio Mesa; but as I have already extended this letter to a greater length than I at first intended, I will reserve mention of them for a future communication.

From the Tio Mesa to the Mohave, and from thence to Los Angelos, the expedition met with no remarkable incident. As the dried beef had become spoiled, the party was compelled to subsist upon game: but this so frequently happens to explorers as to be scarcely worth mentioning. Mr. Beale examined the country about the Mohave with reference to its adaption to an Indian reservation; but, although many good camping places were found, no spots of good land were discovered of sufficient extent for the purpose in view.

The animals appear in better order than would supposed after so fatiguing a journey. While Mr. Beale was delayed at Grand river, the animals were despatched to Taos and back, a distance of nearly eight hundred miles, which was accomplished in sixteen days, and this distance must be added to that traveled on the route from Westport to this place.

I take pleasure in stating that Mr. Beale and all his party are in excellent health and spirits. The trip has been accomplished in a remarkable short space of time, when the circumstances which accasioned the delay are taken into consideration. Deducting the detention at Fort Atkinson, Fort Massachusetts, and at Grand river, the trip has consemed but forty-nine days, which must be set down as one of the shortest on record. These delays were not at all incident to the route, but were altogether extraordinary; and be it remembered that, for nearly the whole distance the expedition was without a guide. When the history of this expedition is fully written out it will be found to form a valuable addition to the geography of North America, for much of the country travedlled over by Mr. Beale is put down on the as "unexplored."

Mr. Beale left town this morning on an expedition through the Tulare valley, to have a talk with the various Indian tribes in that locality,—and to look out lands for reservations, in accordance with the recent acts of Congress. He is accompanied by Benjamin D. Wilson, esq., the Indian agent for this section of country, and by several of the gentlemen who came with him on his overland trip. The peculiar fitness of Mr. Beale to the position which he occupies I need not mention. You yourself know his efficiency, perhaps better than I do.

Closing of the Crystal Palace.—It is advertised that the Crystal Palace will be closed in December, and as that may mean the first of December, it is possible that little more than six weeks remain for visiting the exhibition, and the New York journals are therefore calling upon the resident citizens to visit it, as, thus far, nearly all the visitors have been strangers. The stock is selling at 55 or 45 below par. Before the opening it was up as high as 170.

Low Fares—Triumph of the Hudson River Railroad.

The Hudson River Railroad, in face of the most powerful opposition, set the first example of really low fares. For this it was denounced, as attempting what was really impossible, and thus causing a failure, to the injury of railroad stock. The Hudson River R. R. however has triumphed, and proved most incontestibly that their position was correct, and that low fares are in the end sound policy. The American Railroad Journal very handsomely acknowledges the success of the Hudson, which it had previously controversed.

Let us look at the circumstances of the case, and see if what the Hudson has done, cannot be done by all.

The Hudson R. R. Road was built on, or through solid rock, for much of the distance, and passing likewise through very valuable lands, it was immensely expensive. It was on the bank of the Hudson, where the finest steamboats in the country ran and at very low prices. It was essential then, that on the most costly road in the country, there should be the lowest fares with the highest speed. The policy of this company was to pursue this course, and it has succeed against all opposition.

After the most desperate efforts, and with burnings and blow-ups, the competition of steamboats has failed. The number of passengers on the Railway has been steadily increasing, and that of steamboats diminishing.

Now the far on the Hudson R. R. Road is 1½ cent per mile. From Fishkill Landing to New York (50 miles), is 75 cents fare: while from Cincinnati to Dayton (60 miles) is $1 50—just double. On most railroads the fare is three cents per mile.

The speed of the express trains on the Hudson River is forty miles per hour: while between Cincinnati and Dayton it is not 30.

The cost of the Hudson R. R. Road, per mile, is double that of the Cincinnati and Dayton line.

But it may be said, that the Hudson River Railroad can do this, because it has such an immense number of passengers. Very true: but it has created those passengers by its low fares.—The number of passengers going up the Hudson River now, is more than double the whole number previous to the establishment of the Railroad; of which the whole additional number has been created by the Railroad.

It may be said, that in the West, the population is not great enough: but low fares is the way to bring that population on to the line of the Railway. Suppose the far, between Cincinnati and Dayton was 75 cents, and to Hamilton 30 cents, would not the passengers be more than doubled? Unquestionable. More than that, too—the population on the line of the road would increase much faster; and the company would create for itself a business, which no competition would take away.

But, we would reduce Western fares only to two cents per mile, one that we know can be sustained profitably. Steamboats carry passengers at about one cent per mile profitably. It may be said that a river costs nothing. No; but running steamboats costs a great deal. It is perfectly clear, that, at double the steamboat fares, railways will make far the most profit.

We do not mention this because the people have much cause to complain: but because we think it beyond doubt, the true policy of Railway companies to reduce their fares to the lowest possible rate. Competition will then be discouraged amd the companies will build up a business of their own which will render their stock permanently valuable

The best part of Railway receipts—that which is most profitable—is derived from local passengers; but this is a traffic, which once obtained, cannot be taken away.

Now, how is this to be increased? By making it profitable and pleasant for large numbers of people to reside on the line of the Railway. This the Hudson River Railroad has done to a very extraordinary extent in the last three years.—Their management is well worth examining.—Railroad Record.

Thrilling Adventur of a Young Lady.—In one of the most sober towns of Hampshire county, where the Maine Law is strictly observed, the keeper of one of the hotels has, for several months past, kept a bottle or two of liquers in the bed where he sleeps, taking care to remove them every night when he went to bed, and replace them, when he got up in the morning. A few days since, after replenishing his bottles, and not having a good opportunity to carry them to their old quarters, he slipped them under the bolsters of one of the beds reserved for travelers, and being called out of town to spend the following night forgot to remove them. It unfortunately happened that a young lady traveler stopped at the hotel for the night and was conducted by an unsuspecting servant girl to the room where the liquors had been deposited. As the evening grew late the young lady went to bed and was soon fast asleep, little dreaming of the mischievous spirits which were working under her pillow. About midnight when all had becomes still, the secreted liquor—owing to the heat of the weather, or the warmth imparted to it by the sleeper—expanded to such a degree as to defy longer confinement. Pop! pop! went the corks of both bottles, almost simultaneously, making a noise almost as loud as the report of as many pistols, and awakening the fair sleeper, who sprang from the bed, uttering such wild terrific screams that every person in the house immediately aroused. The moon shone bright enough for the lady to discover the red liquor upon her night dress, and with the conviction that she had been shot she fainted and fell to the floor. A dozen servants immediately burst into the lady's room and were horrified at finding her lying upon the floor weltering in blood. All believed that she had crully murdered by some assassin, or that she had committed suicide. A light, however, convinced them that she still breathed. No time was lost in sending for a surgeon, whilst the half dressed inmates of the house commenced a search for the assassin, or the instrument which had been employed to perpetrate the horrid deed.—On examining the bed it was found to be drenched with what was supposed blood of young lady but a strong smell of barndy caused one to investigate a littile further, when the two bottles—one partially filled with red wine and the other with brandy—were discovered under the pillow! How the doctor came, how the lady recovered, and and how the landlord tried to hush up the affair, the next day, can be better imagined than we can descbe.

An Incident.—At the Woman's Rights Convention, in Cleveland, Wm. Lloyd Garrison having called Rev. Mr. Nevin, in debate, "a liar, a rowdy and a scoundrel," according to the Cleveland Herald, the following sequel is said to have occurred:

"As the audience passed out of the Hall, Mr. Nevin's brother, a layman, met him and inquired whether those words were uttered in the heat of debate or coolly. Retractation was refused, and the brother twisted Mr. Garrison's nose as he hurled him against the wall of the Melodeon. Recovering his position, Mr. Garrison said "do you treat gentleman so?" "No," was the answer, "I treat no gentleman so, but so I treat William Lloyd Garrison."

☞ Leahey, convicted of the murder of Manley, it is expected will be sentenced during the present term, to imprisonment for life, as the Supreme Court refused to grant a new trial.

American Citizens Abroad.

The Philadelphia Ledger gives an account of an interesting case that recently occurred in Bremen, in which was involved the question of the right of an individual to throw off his allegiance to another government and become a citizen of the United States, and how far that voluntary act of citizenship entitled him to the protection of the United States Government. Conrad Schmidt, formerly a subject of the Government of Hanover, but recently a citizen of the United States, and having a passport from the Department of State at Washington, was arrested by the Bremen Director of Police upon a requisition from the Hanoverian Government.

Mr. King, U. S. Consul at Bremen, protested against his arrest, and declared that a refusal to release the man would require redress in damages. The fact was made known to Mr. Bernard U. S. Minister at Berlin, and he approved of Mr. King's proceedings. In Mr. Bernard's letter to Mr. King, he distinctly declares that if Schmidt is surrendered by Bremen to Hanover, the Government of the United States would demand his unconditional release and restoration. That if Schmidt owed any service to Hanover, it is on a claim resting upon a notice that the allegiance of the subject cannot be renounced without the consent of the Sovereign.

This notion, the American Minister declares, is no part of the code of public or national law. If it be the law of Hanover, it has no force beyond her own dominions. Every law of a State stops at the territorial boundaries of that State—it can proceed no farther—it cannot invade another State. Mr. Schmidt, in Bremen, is as much beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Hanover as if he were in the United States. And being there in the character of a citizen of the United States, with unquestioned proofs of citizenship, if Hanover stretches the law of her prerogative over him within her own territarial limits, which she can only do by the free assent of Bremen, he does not hesitate to declare that such assent of Bremen to such a measure cannot fail to be regarded as a serious offence to the United States.

Bremen has no right to make herself the instrument for enabling Hanover thus to extend her prerogative and laws so as to reach this citizen of the United States beyond her proper jurisdiction.

Mr. Schmidt was, the day after the reception of this note, released, and all his effects restored.

This principle is good so far as it goes, but it does not reach the case of a naturalized citizen who places himself again within the limits of the country from which he had voluntarily severed his allegiance. The right of Schmidt to claim the protection of his adopted country, even in Hanover, if he goes there in pursuit of his lawful business, is still undecided, though this is a matter of great importance to thousands of naturalized citizens.

Piquant and Patriotic.

The following sentiments are just such as we like to see go the rounds, and hence "give them a lift." The extract is from Harper's Magazine:

Four splendid events have occurred in our foreign intercourse which have stamped themselves upon the memories and hearts of many in Europe. When the noble frigate the Macedonian, a war ship no more,

"Built in the eclipse and rigged with curses dark,"

but a messenger of love, freighted with the generous, voluntary contributions of the American people, to the starving people of Ireland, a thrill of electric joy, passing through the frames of the sufferers, was caught and carried round the glope, as far as the deed was heard. When, too, the inevitable Jackson extorted from lingering France the just dues of our citizens, on the single condition of "Pay or we'll you," the old diplomats of Europe, accustomed only to protocolling, intriguing, postposing, ultimatums, and ultimatissimums, raised their drowsy heads, to ask with some astonishment, "Who is this impertinent young genius that dares to talk to a venerable monarchy in this strain?" So also the able reply of Mr. Webster to the impertinences of Hulseman, fell with a crash among the mouldy archives of Vienna. But no event, we suspect, has been of more efficiency in awakening the old world to a consciousness of our existence, than the prompt decided, and glorious act of Captain Ingraham, when in the face of the Austrian fleet, he threw the national ægis over the prostrate form of a poor Hungarian exile and pointed to his guns.—The shout of Vive la Repuleque, which for the first time, perhaps, circled around the hills of Smyrna, was echoed from the hearts, if not the voices, of many thousands of men.

Extravagance on Gentlemen.—The newspaper have rather ungallantly referred to the extravagances of the ladies in articles of dress and ornaments, but it would appear that gentlemen were liable to the same censure in the prices paid for many articles of dress now in vogue. The most fashionable cravats are sold at five dollars. The fall style of velvet vests range from $10 to $22 each. Most of the desirable patterns of the best quality have been already taken at prices above $20.

In the matter of vests buttons, there is great extravagance. We hear of sales of single setts at upwards of a hundred dollars, and the jewellers on Washington street have elegant styles ranging from $10 to $20 a button, or from $60 to $120 a set of six. At the latter price a superb set with diamond centres can be obtained.

The finest shirts on exhibition in Faneuil Hall cost twelve dollars each, and a small fortune is required for a "fashionable suit" of gentlemen's clothes.—Boston Transcript.

Turkey—Prince Gortshakoff's Attempt to Poison Omer Pacha.—Prince Gortschakoff had resolved to remove Omer Pacha, and for this purpose he or his emissaries had tried to poison that gallant general, who has already done so much towards the regeneration of Turkey. It appears that a European Physician, who arrived some months back at Constantinople, obtained by dint of solicitation, the direction of the military hospital of Schumla. It seems that Omer Pacha soon perceived that this person kept up mysterious relations with Russian spies, and in consequence he kept on his guard. Soon after, being warned that there was an intention to poison him, he feigned to be indisposed, and sent for the medical man in question to attend him. This person, after examining the patient, went out to prepare a calming potion, which, on his return, he presented to Omer Pacha to drink. The general in Chief of the Turkish army requested the physician to taste it first himself, and as the other refused to do so, he forced him to drink the whole of it in his presence. Seeing that the physician then wanted to hurry out, he forced him to remain in the tent, in order that he might judge of the effect of the potion. At the end of some hours the physician died from the poison.—Paris Constitutional.

☞ A German colony has been for a couple of years, settled in Pickens district, South Carolina, on a tract of 20,000 acres of land, which it has purchased in common, to be divided among the several families of the community. Houses have been erected, and a village laid out, named "Walhalla," and schools and churches have been instituted; and, according to the Charleston Standard, it is "one of the most beautiful specimens of primitive society to be met with in any country.

A Highway to the Pacific.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: We some days since received a copy of a namphlet entitled "A Few Remarks on a Railroad to the Pacific," by "a member of the Philadelphia bar." The subject is treated with much ability, and many interesting facts are stated. Several passages are quite eloquent. After reviewing the whole ground the writer gives the subjoined, as demonstrated truths, in the contingency of the successful construction of a great highway to the Pacific:

1. It will necessarily secure to us a virtual monopoly of the Chinese and Jabanes markets.

2. Besides the mails of this continent, those of all Europe, for all parts of eastern, middle, and southern Asia, and of all European possessions in the Pacific, will be carried over this equally safe and expeditious route, and this mail service will in itself constitute a large source of revenue.

3. The United States mails between the two great sections of the Union will be carried over his road with a great saving of expense to the nation and of time to the commercial community and with a certainty that cannot be otherwise attained.

4. All the travel of Europe for the larger portion of Asia and all the eastern Pacific islands will pass over this road, both going and returning.

5. It will be a cheap and safe medium of conveyance of domestic exchanges and commerce to the amount of millions on millions every year between the great regions of the Pacific and the Atlantic States.

6. It will afford an outlet to the shores of the two oceans for all the productions of the Mississippi valley States, and enable us to supply with bread the crowded population both of Europe and Asia.

7. It will largely increase the business of all railroads running through the States, from the main trunk to any Atlantic seapor.

8. It will employ, during the years consumed in building it, thousands of our laboring people in a healthy climate, and will offer facilities to emigration, and will be the means of carrying population to our territories, and of creating new and happy States in the vast wilderness of the continent.

9. It will be a mighty bond of union, of safety, and of peace, between our own American States and with the world.

10. It with enable the government to discharge certian constitutional obligations of defence and protection under which the United States exist in respect to each one of the States, and which, so far as California is concerned, cannot be properly discharged without some such means of speedy and direct communication between her self and the other States of the confederacy.

11. It will act as a powerful stimulus on the industrial prosperity of the whole country, and particularly on the business interests of our great Pacific and Atlantic seaports.

12. It will be the great world road of commerce.

The Empire of Mexico.—In the opinion of persons well informed in Mexican affairs, a plan has been maturing, since the recall of Santa Anna, to convert the and Mexican Republic into an Empire, and to make him its Emperor. His general movements indicate strongly that such are his intentions. He takes Louis Napoleon as his model, and closely imitates the course he pursued before the 2d of December, in France. He expects to attain his object by a similar coup d'etat in Mexico. This project is supposed to be countenanced by European Monarchs, who fear the example of our Republican institutions and would check their spead on this continent. It is thought proper, however, to get up an official denial of this plan, to go forth to the world, and Gen. Almonte, under instructions, no doubt, publishes a letter to answer that purpose. He may believe his denial true, but the world does not. The general belief is, that Santa Anna is to establish an Empire, backed by England and France. It may not be so, but the course of events in Mexico, and rumors apparently from intelligent sources, indicates such to be the plan.

Foreign postage.—Information has just reached the Post Office Department, through the Bremen office, that the Post Office Department of Prussia, of the Gram Duchy of Mecklenburg Strelitz, and of the Duchy on Saxony Altenburg, have reduced their postage to and from Bremen on letters to and from the United States, to the uniform rate of five cents, making the full rate of postage to from those States, respectively, by the Bremen line of steamers, fifteen cents, instead of twenty two, the rate hitherto charged.—Balt. Sun.

Sure Enough!—The Woodbury Bank, Connecticut, collapsed about a year ago, by fore-ordination, and its bills have since been quietly bought up at 25 to 50 cents on the dollar. That accomplished, the Bank is ready to resume payment, the Receiver advertises that he is ready to pay all claims upon it; and The Courant (Hartford) coolly observes;

"Holders of bills need not, therefore, make any sacrifice on them."

No, they need n't!—in fact, we guess they nearly all made the reverse of a sacrifice.

We respectfully eequest our patrons, present and futnre, not to send us any bills of the Woodbury Bank, no matter how swaggering may be its resumption. We don't feel at all sure of our ability to tell which thimble the little joker is under. "Now you see it and now you don't."

Seriously—is it not time that all these old Bank charters, granted on a vicious, exploded principle should be repealed? Good, sound Banks, which have been doing an honorable business since they were chartered, might be exempted: but all others should be expressly abolished and Banking henceforth prosecuted under wellguarded general laws, with ample security in the public chest.—N. Y. Tribune.

Bonnets.—The Dublin Evening Mail has the following bit on bonnets: "We may mention, for the information of our fair readers, that the Queen wore a pink bonnet, (on her visit to the Exhibition,) which her Majesty wore on her head, be it remared, and whose shape we wish we could induce the fashionable milliners to adopt, instead of those absurd things which now-a-days hang half-way down the backs of young ladies, a brazen, barefaced expression to the fairest and most delicate features, and an appearance of being high shouldered, to the most gracefully figurese.

A minister, travelling where the road was diffienlt to find, requested a man by the wayside to direct him, naming the place where he wished to go.

"Well, said the hedger and ditcher," keep on just as you are going about a mile and a half; there at the cross roads you will see a minister, who will direct you to the left a couple of miles, and there at the fork of the road is another minister, who will direct you to the right about three or four miles, and so on at every fork and cross of the road, is a minister to tell you which road to take."

"Ah," says the parson "what do you call ministers?"

"Why, says the "other, those things which stand up at the cross and forks of the road with something like a hand on them."

"Finger boards, you mean," says the preacher, "why do you call them ministers?"

"Because they are always pointing the way to other people, and never go themselves."

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1853.

Failure of the Bank of Massillon!—A telegraphic despatch this morning reports that the Bank of Massillon, Ohio, has failed.

The Star that never sets!—Vermont has elected a democratic Governor! Where can whiggery hide its diminished head, now its boasted star in the East has set?

After several ballotings, the Legislature elected Hon. John Robinson, democrat, Governor, as follows:—For Robinson, dem., 120; Fairbanks, whig 104; Brainard, free-soil, 15.

☞ Hon. John Pettit, U. S. Senator, has recently been paying a visit to the "Northern tier." He stopped at Michigan City, to see for himself the Harbor Improvements that are needed there, to converse with its citizens as to their views, to learn the extent of its Commerce, &c—and then, after a short stay here, attended the Agricultural Fair at Goshen, and returned home, we believe, via Sturgis and Fort Wayne. During his visit here, we had the pleasure of a call from him at our sanctum, where he saw our Power Press throwing off papers at the rate of 16 per minute, and acknowledged that it was something of an "Institution" for a country office.

Mr. Pettit is entitled to credit for leaving his business and making this visit to the only Lake Port of our State, in order to familiarize himself personally with its just claims on the General Government; and from what we know of him, we expect him to tell his fellow members at Washington, next winter, in the frankest language, what Indiana demands in the way of Harbor improvements.—South Bend Register.

☞ Mr. Pettit reached here on Saturday night, and remained until Monday morning, when he proceeded to Lafayette. Several of our citizens embraced the opportunity to pay their respects to the Hon. Gentleman. He is perhaps "the best abused man" in the State; his firm, unflinching, and honest support of what he believes to be right, has made him a favorite target for all the pop-guns of whiggery; but if we may judge from his appearance, their puny assaults have not ruffled his mind, nor impaired his digestion.—He has hosts of warm personal friends, and all who know him give him the credit of being one of the ablest men and most honest politicians in the State. He will yet achieve an enviable national reputation, and be an honor to his State.

Colerick's Concert Hall.—This splendid and commodious building is rapidly hastening towards completion. He is a structure that has been much needed here, and its enterprising owner deserves the thanks of the community for his enterprise in furnishing such an accommodation. It is of the largest size, calculated to seat comfortably from 1,000 to 1,200 persons, is lofty and well ventilated, and will be surpassed either in size or finish by few if any Halls in the State.

It is expected to be finished on or about the 1st December next, and will be opened by Mr. KIMBALL, the well-known vocalist from Boston, with an amateur CONCERT of vocal music.—We have not learned the particulars, but have no doubt a good entertainment will be provided—such an one as will be worthy the occasion of the opening of this noble Concert Hall.

Singular Coincidence.—During the war between England and China, the Celestials had a legion in the field, whose dresses were ornamented with strange devices of fiends and monsters: their faces were horribly painted, and each man was armed with two swords which he was to clash together in the face of the enemy, at the same time looking fierce and terrible, yelling loudly, and using other cunning arts to intimidate their fearful adversaries and fright them from their propriety. Much was expected from this dreadful legion,—more perhaps than was realized. When they first came in contact with the enemy, the sturdy "barbarians" were astounded at their novel appearance and tactics. They soon, however, saw into the joke, and grounding their arms gave way to uncontrollable laughter. The terrible legion thereupon left the field, vaunting that the "barbarians" had "grounded their arms" and "beat a retreat."

Johnny Dawson of the Times is imitating this policy of Johnny Chinaman. He has clothed his paper with all the fiends and hobgoblins his depraved and diseased imagination could conjure up; has put on full as fierce and indignant look, rattling his edgeless swords in our face, and not only full, but actually boiling over with sound and fury. When we grounded our arms to press our hands to our sides to prevent our mirth at his grotesque antics from bursting off our button, he affects to mistake it for a retreat, and suing for peace. All a mistake, Johnny, into which you seem very willing to fall. We have not retreated, neither do we sue for peace, nor pledge ourselves to "keep still" and submit to your castigations. On the contrary, we shall hold you to your promise, and insist on your being with us "every Wednesday until the 7th day of September, 1854," and if ever your "castigations" should be worthy of notice, we will notice them. We do not think it necessary to step aside to kick every whiffet that may bark at us, whatever we may do if they bite.

No crawling out, Johnny. Don't act the false prophet, and cry "peace, peace, when there is no peace." We have promised ourselves many a hearty laugh during the approaching long winter nights over your impotent malignant effusions and ludicrous attempts at humor and sarcasm, and we are not to be fooled out of it in this way. Stick to your promise—you will feel all the better, both in mind and body, for getting so much trash and gall off your stomach, and we shall feel a philanthropic satisfaction in being the cause of preventing its stricking in, and depriving society of so bright an ornament as you must prove, if your mind can be kept in proper tone. Remember—every Wednesday until September next.

OYSTERS.—R. C. Filson, who has for some two or three seasons past furnished our citizens with fresh Baltimore oysters, has again got his express in operation, and will regularly receive a supply of fresh oysters put up in their own liquor, hermetically sealed in cans and kegs, and put through on the lightening express, so as to reach here as fresh and good as the day they are taken from their beds in the sea. We have tried them and can recommend them as just the thing. Our citizens can now regale themselves with this luxury at almost as cheap a rate as they are furnished in the eastern cities. His depot is at T. K. Brackenridge's.

What has become of the Lafayette Courier? We have not received it for the last three or four weeks. Is the paper stopped—or is the editor so lifted up since the State Fair was held in the Star City that he cannot any longer notice his more humble brethren of the country press?—We pause for a reply.

The Toledo Commercial Republican is now printed on an entire new fount of type, which gives it quite a neat appearance. We are pleased to notice this sign of the prosperity of the establishment. It is an excellent paper, every way worthy a liberal support.

The United States Illustrated.—We have received part 4 and 5 of this splendid work, which fully maintains the high character acquired by the preceding numbers. The "West" contains splendidly engraved views of NewHarmony, Ind., St. Charles Mo., Burlington, Iowa, Prairie de Rocher, and 4 views on the Upper Mississippi.—The engravings in the "East" are—Genesee Falls, Katterskill Falls, Chapel of our Lady (on the Hudson,) Columbia Bridge, (Susquehanna,) Trenton High Falls, Trenton Falls, (N. Y.) Gowanus Heights, and Table Rock, Niagara.

HERRMAN J. MEYER, Publisher, 164 William Street, N. York.

Meyer's Universum. We have received parts 6 and 7 of this beautiful and cheap publication, each containing 4 well executed engravings of scenery, in various parts of the world, with appropriate letter press descriptions. It is published in semi-monthly numbers, each containing 4 plates, at 25 cents, by HERRMAN J. MEYER, N. York.

HELEN MULGRAVE; or Jesuit Executorship.—There is, probably no class of works which so entirely absorb the attention, and imbue the mind with the lessons they inculcate, as those which portray, in clear and natural language, without any attempt at rhetorical flourishes, or constrained effort at effect, incidents in the eventful history of some person of whom we can say to ourselves, "this is just like Mr. or Mrs. So-and-So." It is their very naturalness which constitutes their charm. For with books as with persons—to be admired they must be natural; it was this feature which created such enthusiasm in favor of the works of Currer Bell, and, were they divested of this peculiar characteristic, they would be robbed of all that interested us. We are led to make these remarks from the perusal of the excellent work, the title of which is given above, which has been forwarded to us by the publishers, Messrs De Witt & Davenport, New York. We would advise our readers to procure this work at once, for we are well assured that it will prove a profitable investment of both time and money.

For sale at Burroughs' Book Store.

THE MONK'S REVENGE; or, the Secret Enemy, is the title of an excellent romance just received from the enterprising firm of De Witt & Davenport, New York. The incidents of this romance belong to an age when men earned renown only on the battle-field, and sought repose in the lap of beauty. The Christian and the Pagan hosts are here brought vividly before the reader, and their desperate encounters are rendered more sanguinary and ruthless by the influence of fanaticism. It is a well-written book, by a popular author, and lacks none of the more prominent elements of success. It furnishes an admirable portraiture of the times when religious enthusiasm led whole countries to enlist under the Banners of the Cross and wage exterminating war in the name of the Holy Church.

It can be had at Burroughs' Book Store in this city.

Sale of Durham Cattle.—The choice Durham cattle brought hereby the AllenCo.Stock Association, were disposed of at public sale on Tuesday last; and we are pleased to add, realised a good per centage above cost. The attendance of farmers was large, and the competition of bidders quite spirited. The result of the experiment shows that a proper feeling is excited among our farmers in regard to the improvement of their stock, and we have every reason to hope that in a few years Allen county will become as famous for its fine stock as it now is for wheat. For grass no county in the state can beat us, and now that our farmers are turning their attention to stock raising, and seeking to improve their breeds by a judicious cross of the best varieties, there can be no doubt that Allen is destined to rank high as a grazing county.

Below we give a list of the cattle sold, with the names of the buyers, and the prices.

☞ DR. E. W. H. ELLIS of Indianapolis was chairman of the Committee on Miscellaneous Articles at the State Fair, and was exceeding active, prompt, efficient, obliging in the discharge of his duties. The committee's report was marked with the Doctor's genial good humer and correct comprehension of the qualities of the article examined. Their duties were very arduous. A place on that committee is not an enviable one, and the public have reason to be under obligations to the gentlemen who have acted on it at our Fair.—Ind. Journal.

HOGS.—We clip the following paragaph from the Prairie City, of Terre Haute.

In this city it is the general opinion among the hog dealers, that the ruling price of pork this season, will be form $3,50 to 3.75 per hundred.—Our farmers and pork raisers, stimulated by their success and the high price paid for this sale last season, have, as a consequence, gone into the business more extensively, this year, and it is predicted that in this region both the quantity and quality will far surpass the production of last year.

The population of Turkey.—The population of Turkey in Asia is 13,700,000, and that of Turkey in Europe 15,500,000, making a total of nearly 30,000,000; nearly equal to the population in France, although the country is not so thickly settled. The population of Russia nearly doubles that of Turkey.

Effectually Silenced.—It is said Secretary Guthrie, in 1843 and 1844, wrote a very strong native American letter. By all means have it brought to light.—Cleveland Herald.

We shall not let charges against Mr. Guthrie that we know to be unfounded, go uncontradicted. Neither "in 1843 or 1844" nor any other year did Mr. G. write a Native American letter. He was never tainted in the slightest degree with the Native American heresy.—Louisville Journal.

From Chicago to Philadelphia.

The North America Gazette, of a late date contains an article giving some important statistical and general information in relation to the construction of the "North Western Railroad." This road, when completed, will from the best possible main trunk line from this city to tide water. As such it assumes an importance to our citizens which it would not otherwise possess.

The North Western Railroad company was recently incorporated by an act of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and its charter provides for the construction of a railroad from the Pennsylvania and Ohio state line, or from the point of intersection with the Cleveland and Mahoning railroad on the west, to the Pennsylvania railroad near Blairsville, Indiana county. A supplemental act authorizes a connection with the Pennsylvania central road, at any point in Cambria county. The route actually surveyed, and which will probably be adopted extends from New Castle, in Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, to Blairsville, where it will connect, temporarily with a railway of three miles in length, now in operation to a point of junction with the Pennsylvania Central road.

The total distance from New Castle to Blairsville, is eighty four and a half miles, and it is estimated that the cost of grading and bridging the route will reach one million three hundred and seventy-five dollars—averaging about $16,272 per mile. The completion of this road will place Philadelphia in direct communication with Cleveland. Sandusky, Detroit, and Chicago, and give the latter city one thousand miles of continuous railway, and enable our citizens to reach tide water without change of guage, by passing over a distance of only 806 miles, a shorter route than any other now in existence.

The Gazette furnishes the following table of distance from the Lakes to the Atlantic cities, by which the advantages of this line, in point of distance is seen at a glance.

Chicago to Goshen, by Michigan South. R. R. ..	112
Goshen to Swanton, by N. Indiana " ..	102

Cleveland to NewCastle, by Mahoning " ..	85

1. Chicago to Philadelphia, without change of guage	806
Chicago to Crestline, by Fort Wayne	281

2. Chicago to Philadelphia, with one change of guage	822
3. Cleveland to Philadelphia, by Mahoning and N. Western Railroads, without transhipment	472
4. Cleveland to Philadelphia, by Alliance and Pittsburgh, one transhipment	491
5. Cleveland to Philadelphia, by Wellsville and Pittsburgh, with one transhipment	502
6. Cleveland to Elizabethport, by Dauphin and Easton, without change of guage	523
7. Cleveland to Jersey City, by Buffalo and New York City R R, with three changes of guage	666
8. Cleveland to Jersey City, by Dunkirk and New York & Erie R. R, three changes of guage	611
9. Cleveland to New York city, by Buffalo and Albany, with three changes of guage	655

From this statement it is apparent that the Mahoning and North Western roads form shortest route, in connection with their western extensions, from Chicago to Philadelphia in linear distance, while they have also the great advantage of superiority in respect of grades and curvature. There is on the Northern Indiana road one straight reach of seventy miles, and the aggregate curvature on the entire line is but ninety degrees. The maximum grade between Chicago and Swanton, 212 miles of distance, is only 20 feet per mile, and from the last named point, with some inconsiderable exceptions, the route to New Castle has no grades over 26 feet. The entire line, excepting the North Western link, is in operation, or under contract, and when the whole chain is completed it will constitute the longest unbroken extent of iron highway in the world.—Chicgo Tribune.

Wonderful Progress of the Illinois Central Railroad.—It is but little over one year since this great work, near 700 miles in length, the longest in the United States, was undertaken. The Executive Committee are now in this state examining the line, and they post up their books as follows:

Three quarters of the whole work is graded.

They have more iron on hand than will be necessary to complete the whole road.

The entire amount of money necessary for the completion of road has provided for.

One-third of the whole road will be in running order and operated by January 1st next.

The Board of Directors hope to be able to have the whole road in operation by January 1st, 1855.—Chicago Democrat.

Facts about the New York Split.

The Albany Atlass gives the following succinct account, which we believe in the main to be a truthful one, of the condition of affairs in New York:

The Democratic Convention at Syracuse was legitimetly composed of 128 members. Of this number 50 were what had been known as 'barnburners,' and 78 were of the opposite section of party, supporters of Cass in 1848. Of this 78, 48 acted throughout with the regular Convention leaving 30 bolters to form the Parlor Convention, and to pick up delegates from the street to fill up their lists. There were some pretended contestants; but no one believed them more rightfully elected than their associates from the streets.

The Convention, thus composed nearly equally from both sections of the party, nominated a ticket of seven original Cass men, and three barnburners. The resolutions were such as the bolters themselves might have passed.

It is under such circumstances that the Crosswells, Maurices and Storys, who had, as far back as 1849, begged for union, labored for a consolidation of the two sections on the basis of the widest toleration in regard to opinions on slavery, and who had proffered a conjunction with the Barnburners, as a free soil party, on the basis of equal division of officers—it is under such circumstances that these men bolt now.

It is under such circumstances that Bronson and O'Connor, who tinkered up the union of the party, and were the first to take office under it, and bolt the nominations—and cling to their offices.

They embraced the Barnburners, when they were a distinctive body, organized apart and presenting a seperate ticket, and advocating measures then pending, now adjusted. Four years later they repudiate a ticket composed of 7 out of their own friends, presented by a convention composed equally of both sections, upon a platform of their own choice—and without being able to point to a single act in the National or State administration, at which they can justly take offense.

They repudiate Democratic union; but they do not repudiate the offices which, in the proportion of three to one, have been bestowed on their friends.

Russian Invasion of the Sandwich Islands.—The Alta California says:

"We learn from private advices received in this city, that a vast emigration of Russians, said to be 12,000 in number, is in preparation for the Sandwich Islands, under the immediate auspices of the Emperor. If our information is correct, and we have no reason to doubt its truth, it will be necessary for the government of the United States to take immediate possession of the islands, or they will fall into the hands of some one of the European powers. It is not probable that the jealousy of France or England would permit a Russian invasion of the Sandwich Islands under pretence of colonization. They will consequently anticipate this movement, and in doing so, anticipate ourselves."

Arrival of the Niagara.

HALIFAX, Oct. 27th.

The Niagara arrived at 10 o'clock this morning, with dates to the 15th.

The Sultan has announced that if the Russians do not evacuate the principalities within fifteen days, Turkey will consider it as a case of declared war, and act accordingly, but will not cross the Danube. The proclamation is posted on all the mosques. The Sultan has invited the combined fleets up to Constantinople. The Black Sea is free to neutral flags.

The Piedmont gov't had refused to admit M. Foresti as Consul for United States, alleging that he is a deciple of Mazzini.

Corn may be imported free into the papal districts, until January 1854.

It is supposed that the Turkish government will decline the offers of foreign exiles of France, if France and England afford her assistance.

It is rumored that the American Consul at Smyrna, opposed Koszta's removal to America.

Omer Pacha, on the 9th, formally summoned Gortschakoff to evacuate the Ottoman territory, allowing fifteen days, and if the demand is definitely refused, he will commence hostilities at once, in the meantime he will not cross over the Danube.

A levy of 150,000 Turkish troops has been ordered.

The navigation of the Danube and Black Seas has been guaranteed to neutral flags.

The clergy has offered to place 300,000,000 piasters at the Sultan's disposal.

The Sultan tells the foreign Ambassadors that he is desirous of settling the difficulties peaceably, but as his ancestors gained their Empire by the sword, the Turks would perish in support of it. But if fate ordained that, Turkey should fall, another master would put Europe to the sword as they entered it sword in hand.

The Russian troops are active, and General Luders had arrived in camp. The troops are in motion up the river, and 15 battallions of infantry and 32 pieces of artillery had marched through Bucharist.

It was reported that Prince Gortschakoff had annexed the principalities, having formerly notified the Haspodaras that Prince Menshikog would in future administer the Government. All the Russian officials had left Constantinople, and 30,000 troops, under a French commander, had been sent to the Bosnia frontier to watch the movements of Prince Daniel, of Montenegro, who is again arming.

It was rumored that the Porte had appointed the Hungarian Generals Dembinski and Klapka to high commands, and that the Shah of Persia, by advice of the British Minister, had rejected the overtures of Russia to war against the Turkish government.

Miss Cunningham has been liberated from prison, at Florence.

The Papal government has forbidden the export of grain. Naples is threatened with a scarcity, and the government contemplates purchasing grain.

Arrival of the Arctic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The steamer Arctic arrived at her dock at 3 o'clock this afternoon. She brings 220 passengers. and dates from Liverpool to the 19th.

The Times says the Turkish manifesto is one of the strongest and most unanswerable state papers issued during the present century. The Post declares that morally Russia is already defeated, and that she will be materially. Hostilities on the Danube and on the Caspian Sea are inevitable. A despatch from Vienna on the 7th. says that Gen. Gortschakoff had replied to the Turkish summons, that he has no authority to commence hostilities, make peace, or evacuate the principalities. He refuses to take any action in the premises. The Russian subjects in Turkey are placed under Austrian protection. The Turks will allow neutral flags to sail on the Danube until the 20th, and no longer.

Austria and Prussia had recalled their subjects from Turkish service. Agitation begins to manifest itself in Italy; 200 political arrests were made on the 16th.

The Turkish declaration of war, published in full, is a temporate and high spirited document. It does not lay an embargo on Russian ships, and and protects all the rights of commerce. When the Czar heard that Turkey had declared war, he fell into a violent passion, and swore to exterminate her. The fleets were observed preparing to advance to Constantinople.

A battle was fought on the 29th ult., between the Circassians and the Russians—a heavy loss is reported on both sides. The Circassians retired into the mountains.

No action in France—no shipment of troops, but great activity in the navy yards.

Prussia and Austria give indications, though not formally, that they will take a neutral position in the war. The French and English diplomatists think, therefore, that war will be confined to the Turkish frontiers.

Omer Pacha had notified the Russian commanders to clear out of the Principalities before the 25th, or he would commence hostilities. Gen. Raskamatik, of Polish notoriety, is the chief commander of theRussian army in the Principalities.

The Japan Expedition returned from Jeddo Aug. 17th, having met with friendly reception. Commodore Perry had an interview with the Imperial Princes, and had delivered the President's letter, and agreed to call next spring for a reply. The Americans and Japanese parted with mutual presents and expressions of good will.

Liverpool Market.—The Liverpool cotton Mar- continues steady. Sales for the last three days 21,000 bales. Breadstuffs active and further advanced. Flour sold freely; Baltimore and Philadelphia 35s 6d, held at 36s; Western Canal 34s 6d and 35s; sour flour 31s. Wheat in extensive demand at 2d dearer. Fine white American 10s 4d. Indian Corn quiet. Lard and Cheese steady at recent decline.

Prince Albert the Tool of Russia.

We find the following in the columns of the Detroit Daily Advertiser, and give it to our readers merely as a matter of curiosity, without at all endorsing its correctness:

"The rumor is getting pretty thoroughly spread that the nonentity known as the Queen of England's husband, has been interfering with foreign affairs very much to the advantage and interest of Russia, and very much against the interest of the country that furnishes him with a wife, bed, board and pocket money at the public expense.

The fact that the Queen has made herself unusually and extremely officious in demanding to see and know the contents of the foreign despatches of late, and that the contents of these despatches where known in the German and Vienna capitals, and sometimes published in the official journals of these cities in advance of their arrival has caused enquiries to be set on foot which has elicited information, fastening on Prince Albert the stigma of being the instrument of the Emperors of Russia and Austria, and that he is the person who furnished the copies of the despatches and communications, the publicity of which has aroused much suspicion.

We sincerely hope that the base treachery of this German Puppet of the House of Saxe Gotha may be thoroughly exposed. If it can be fastened on him, we doubt very much if a firm hold on the Queen's apron strings can save him from such a mob as gave Haynau his just due; for there is nothing so odious to the British nation as treason, subserviency and base ingratitude."

The New York National Democrat says:

"In connection with this affair—and as one of the "mere curiosities of literature"—we may mention that a certain clerk in the Foreign Office of London lately prepared a sixty pages pamphlet showing the connection of Prince Albert with the damaging disclosures made in the German journals; he had the pamphlet printed, and twenty thousand struck off, without, however, issuing any to the public. He then sent one copy of the pamphlet to Prince Albert, and one to Lord Aberdeen—the result was, that Aberdeen paid fiftythousand pounds sterling for the edition, and the author was appointed one of the subtreasurers at the Cape of Good Hope—where it is the bad hope of the British Cabinet that he may either die naturally, or be killed by the Caffirs.

Medill elected by over sixty thousand majority.—We had put down Medill's majority at about 35,000. We were disposed to "draw it rather mild," out of christian compassion to our opponents. Others, less merciful, had boldly struck for 50,000. But no one, in the highest flight of bragging, had rated it a sixty thousand. Yet such is the case. The official vote in all the counties (except Auglaize, Scioto and Henry) stands thus:

Medill,	144,925
Barrere,	84,370
Medill's maj. over Barrere,	60,555
Lewis,	50,158
Medill's maj. over both,	10,396

The three counties yet to be heard from will probably give Medill an additional 1,200.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Sixty-eight on Joint Ballot.—Lewis Anderson, Democrat, is the Senator elect in the Meigs,—Lawrence, &c., District. One of the best men in Lawrence county. That makes our list complete. The Senate consists of five regular Whigs—five fusionists: the rest Democrats. Democratic majority 15!

There are 15 regular whigs in the House.—Fusionists and Free Soilers, 7; the balance democrats. The majority in the lower house 53;—making a majority of just sixty-eight on joint ballot. There may be some slight errors in this; but we are not in danger of losing the United States Senator on that account.—Ohio Statesman.

Pennsylvania Election.—She State Senate consists of 18 Democrats, 14 Whigs, and 1 native; the House of 70 Democrats, 26 Whigs, and four Natives. In all but 8 counties, the official Democratic majority for Supreme Judge is 37,810; for Auditor General 37,785; for Canal Commissioner 34,745, and for Surveyor General 26,538!

☞ We are daily interrogated something after the following fashion: "What has become of the railroad projects about which there was so much interest manifested a few weeks ago?—Why don't you say something on the subject in your paper?" We now reply, publicly, as we have done privately, that we conceive we have done our whole duty in relation to the contemplated railroads. We have warned our citizens of what we considered the imminent danger of rejecting proposals for uniting with one or more of our sister cities above the Falls, and of accepting their means and influence in making these roads. We did so, honestly believing that this was the surest means of securing these great thoroughfares. But it soon became evident that these opinions of ours did not meet the views of a large and influential class of citizens. It was proclaimed on the streets that we and others were endeavoring to betray the rights and interests of this city into the hands of Louisville, Jeffersonville and Madison—that New Albany could certainly secure one, and probably both the Fort Wayne and Sandusky roads, without aid or cooperation from any quarter. What progress has been made towards accomplishing this most desirable result we are not apprised, but we hope that the most sanguine anticipations of our "all or none" friends will be fully realized—that at least one of the railroads will be built as they propose. We never have and never expect to pen a paragraph affording us more gratification than will the making of such an announcement.—New Albany Ledger.

Important Railroad Arrangements.—Important arrangements have been perfected by A. R. Gillmore, Superintendent of the Rock Island Railroad—J. B. Wyman of the Illinois Central, and E. Keating of the Chicago and Mississippi Railroad, by which passengers will be "put through" from Chicago to St. Louis in twenty hours, and from St. Louis to New York in fifty-six. The arrangement is to take effect on Monday next. There will be two trains a day for St. Louis. The Morning Express will leave this city at eight o'clock, and passengers will arrive in St. Louis at four o'clock next morning. The Evening Express train will leave at eleven o'clock after the arrival of all the trains from the east, so that passengers will not be detained, unless they prefer to wait till next morning. Passengers by this train will arrive in St. Louis the next evening. Seven o'clock in the morning, and eight o'clock in the evening are the times of starting from St. Louis.—Chicago Democratic Press.

The Wabash Valley Railroad.—Those who are concerned are now fully confident that the Wabash Valley Railroad will be speedily built. The towns and counties through which the road will pass, have subsctibed large amounts, and individuals have been no wise illiberal in taking stock. At Bloomington, last week, a vote was taken upon the proposition to take $100,000 stock in the corporate capacity of the city. Tho result was an almost unanimous vote in favor of the subscription. This road will run from Warsaw to the Mississippi, through Bloomington to Lafayette, Indiana, connecting with other roads now terminating at that point It will pass through a fertile and in many places populous country, having every facility, except railroads, to make it one of the finest portions of the State. At Bloomington, it will cross the Alton and Chicago, and the Central roads, where, it is thought, a large union depot will be erected. That this will be a paying road, is a certainty; therefore, in obtaining the funds necessary to complete the work, there will be no difficulty. The more railroads we have, the better; and every new one is an additional evidence of the States advancement.—Chicago Dem. Press.

American Diplomatists going Abroad.—We understand that the new Minister to France, the Hon. John Y. Mason, and the new Minister to China, the Hon. R. M. McLane, will go out on the 19th in the steamer Humboldt. Mr. McL. goes the overland route. The Hon. Carroll Spence, United States Minister to Constantinople, leaves on the 2d proximo in the naval steamer Saranac, from Norfolk.

Gov. Medill, in his proclamation for thanksgiving, wishes our people to give thanks that we have had the last year "no civil discord." The Gyvernor is a sly one. More is ment than meets the ear. Does he mean that the last election was so unanimous that no discord existed in Ohio, or does he think that the discord, if any, of the whigs and free soilers was not civil.—Statesman.

The Removal of Bronson.—Last evening, the Democratic Young Men's Committee held a special meeting at Tammany Hall, and adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the removal of Greene C. Bronson from the office of Collector, meets with our most hearty approval; that the insubordination of those who have arrayed themselves in opposition to the national administration, demands no less a rebuke, than that we feel our confidence in the President of our choice renewed and invigorated by the Jackson-like firmness with which he has vindicated the politics of his administration.

Resolved, That we take this occasion to renew our expressions of attachment and devotion to the State Administration, and the ticket nominated at Syracuse, headed by our distinguished fellow citizen, J. A. Verplank, Secretary of State.—N. Y. Post.

Another Arrest of Counterfeiters.

Our readers will remember that a few days since, two men, named Blessing and Sans, were arrested in Dayton, by U. S. Deputy Marshal Trader, on charge of having in their possession and passing a quantity of bogus money of every denomination. They had a preliminary examination before U. S. Commissioner Smith, and held answer. While confined in jail, in default of the required security, Blessing divulged to the officers of Dayton that he had rented his farm,—situated between Dayton and Xenia to those wholesale manufacturers of bogus money, who with their families were to take possession this week.

He also assured the officers that these men had been largely engaged in the manufacture of bogus money in Green county, where they had been residing the last year, and would no doubt have with them all the implements for the making of the spurious coin and much of the bogus money.

Receiving a full description of the men, Marshal Hitchcock and U. S. Deputy Marshal Trader of Dayton, and officer De Haven of this city, started for blessing's residence at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. As they approached the house they noticed several faggot fires burning, and four large wagons standing in the front yard, and several persons busily engaged unloading them.—The officers watched their movements, and saw them carry from the wagons small boxes of tools. They cautiously advanced and caught the three men answering the description given by Blessing. After securing them with cords, they commenced a search, and found dies of all kinds,—batteries, pots and metal coin of every denomination, finished and unfinished, and all the necessary tools for carrying on an extensive cennterfeiting business.

The four teamsters who, in the opinion of the officers, were ignorant of the character of the persons they were moving, were not arrested. The prisoners and the tools were then placed in one of the wagons and conveyed to Dayten and lodged in jail. The amount of counterfeit money found on them ready for circulation, amounted to over $200. The parties were brought before U. S. Commissioner Smith, yesterday morning, who held them each in $2,000 bail to answer at the Circuit Court. Their names we did not learn. They are strangers to the place.

DIED,—On the 1st instant, SARAH ELLEN, daughter of F. J. and Ellen Frank, aged 1 year and 10 months.

—In this city, at the residence of her mother, on Monday morning, Oct. 31st, Miss SOPHIA J. HENDERSON, aged 22 years.

What sorrowing, what sad mournfulness, what deep-toned feeling, what heart-felt solemnity has her departure to the world of spirits produced in our midst. The mourners go about the streets in search of comforters; friends who have so often been cheered by her smile and rendered happy by the charms thereof, ask of themselves how it is possible that she has left us so suddenly? A large concourse of relations and friends mourn and deplore her loss. Though her body moulders in the grave, her memory remains imperishable in the hearts of those who know her. The noble disposition of which she was possessed, enabled her to exercise a laudable influence over those with whom she associated. Her benevolence towards her companions prompted her to make sacrifices of her own convenience, that she might thereby promote their interest and happiness.—In every sphere in life to which she was called to act, she distinguished herself for zeal, integrity, firmness, and excellence.

Lamented Sophia, thy mission is ended,
And thou hast returned to thy home in the skies,
Thy memory is cherished, thy virtues commended.
Thy kindness, thy mildness, thy sweetness, we prize;
Thy remembrance is grateful to all who e'er knew thee,
And sheds a sweet influence, placid and mild,
But this chilling world, with its selfishness blinded,
Was not a fit place, and God called home his child.

Field, M. W. G. M, Cyrus Fisher, M. E. H. P, James Hutchinson, G. S. Dea, V. J. Bates, Doct. Benj Colby, and one hundred others of the most respectable families of Providence.

This certifies that I have for a number of years been acquainted with the composition and mode of manufacture of Morse's Compound Syrup of Yellow Dock Root. I have also been acquainted with its modus operandi in disease, and can say that in all respects it is admirably calculated to remedy that class of Diseases for which it was designed. It is especially suitable in INDIGESTION and all its attendant symptoms, it excites to healthy action the LIVER, removes Torpor and inactivity of this ORGAN, and stimulates healthy action in all the system. As a DEPURATOR or purifier of the Blood it has no superior.

Agricultural Implement Manufactory

Corner of Caroline and Third St. BUFFALO, N.Y.

Pitt's Patent Separator,

IMPROVED DOUBLE PINION HORSE POWER,

Corn and Cob Mills, &c.

I HEREBY give notice that since the extension of the Patent Right on my machine for treshing and cleaning grain, I have removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where I have permanently located and erected a large establishment for the future manufacture of the above machines.

The Separator has been enlarged, improved and rendered more permanent and durable in all its parts, while the Horse Power, for strength, ease, durability and cheapness of repair, is not surpassed by any in the United States. This Power is warranted to stand the full strength of eight horses; also to give as much effective or useful power when driven by one or two horses as any other Horse Power, whether constructed on the endless chain or lever principle. It was put on trial at the great exhibition of Horse Powers and Treshing Machines at Geneva in July 1852, where it received the New York State Agricultural Society's first premium.

My machines will tresh and clean from three to five hundred bushels of wheat per day, and other grain in proportion. Two hundred of the above machines are for sale at the Agricultural works of the subscriber in this city, all warranted to be a better article than can be purchased at any other shop, and if they do not on trial prove to be so, I will take them off the hand of the purchasers at the price they may pay me for them.

I further notify all persons who are purchasing Horse Powers to be used in California and Oregon, that I will hold them accountable for any infringements to the rights secured to me by Letters patent to the above machines, as I am manufacturing a Horse Power and Separator expressly for that section.

All orders for the above machines, hereafter addressed to John A Pitts, Buffalo, New York, will receive prompt attention. JOHN A. PITTS.

LAUGHTER.

BY M. L. SKINNER.

Laughter! 'tis a pleasant theme,
Bringing back a happy dream
Of the days of early youth,
Days of innocence and truth.
"Ha! ha! ha!" I hear the ringing
Of that mingled laugh and singing,
Though, since then, long years have fled
Like a shadow o'er my head.

Laughter! 'tis hope's living voice,
Bidding us to make our choice,
And to cull from flowery bowers,
Leaving thorns and taking flowers.
"Ha! ha! ha!" sweet hope is singing,
All her choicest blessings bringing;
We'll be wise receiving gladly,
How could we receive them sadly.

Laughter! 'tis a mother's joy,
To behold it in her boy,
When he first essays to run,
Independent type of fun,
"Ha! ha! ha!" the babe's done creeping;
Tells the change that laughter's sweeping;
But fond Hope will say "cease crying,"
Laugh again and keep on trying.

Laughter! 'tis a healing balm,
Good to bring a peaceful calm
To the sore and wounded soul,
Then, oh! let it's echoes roll.
Laughter sometimes cheers the drooping,
Holds erect the form that's stooping,
Tends to drive the saddest away
That comes in a brighter day.

Laughter, the true "poor man's plaster,"
Traveling ahead quick and faster,
Laughing, he forgets his troubles,
While, though real, seem but bubbles,
Tells his stories, keeps on joking,
As, though poor, 'twere not provoking;
And he smiles a parent's blessing
On his loving child caressing.

Laughter! 'tis a seal of nature,
Stamped upon the human creature;
Laughter, either loud or mute,
Tells the human kind from brute.
And the one who never smiles,
Ne'er the tedious hour beguiles;
But repels his friends who can,
More like sullen beast than man.

Arrival of Lieut. Beale and his Party at Los Angelos.

We find the following letter, dated at Los Angelos, Aug. 31st, in the San Francisco Herald.

Edward F. Beale, Esq., superintendent of Indian affairs in California, reached this city on the 22nd instant, via the Cajon Pass. Mr. Beale left Westport, on the frontier of Missouri, May 17th, with a party of fifteen men, (including Messrs. Riggs and Rodgers, of Washington, D.C. Having crossed the Arkansas, the expedition followed up the Huerfano to its source, and crossed the Rocky Mountains by the Sangre de Cristo Pass, entering the valley of the Del Norte, and reaching Fort Massachusetts in twenty days from Westport, traveling without guide, and most of the distance by compass. The actual traveling time between Westport and Fort Massachusetts was seventeen days. Crossing the mountains at Coochetopa Pass, Mr. Beale proceeded towards Grand river, finding several large streams, none of which are mapped. One of these streams, the Rio de la Laguna, was a perfect mountain torrent, and for some time baffled the superintendent in his efforts to cross his equipage. At last he bethought himself of the mode adopted by the Peruvians in crossing similar streams, and put it in operation. Attaching a string to a stone—the string being fastened to one still larger, and that to a substantial rope—the stone was thrown across the rapid, and the end of the rope drawn over and made fast to the trunk of a tree. Mr. Beale then fastened the other end of the rope to a tree on the opposite side, this end having an elevation of twenty five or thirty feet. An iron ring was placed upon the rope, and to this ring were attached the various articles which were to be transported across the river. The ring would slide along the rope to opposite side, and when relieved of its burden would be drawn back; and so on, back and forth, until everything was passed over. The expedition then proceeded to the Uncompagre, a tributary of Grand river, in crossing which one of the pack mules was drowned. This was the first animal lost. The country abounded in game, and they were never a day without deer, elk, or antelope.

Mr. Beale and his party pushed on as far as Grand river, which was found to be swollen by the melted snows from the mountains, and running with such rapidity that it could not be forded. There was no resource left but to construct a canoe. Cutting down the largest cotton-wood tree that could be found, the men set to work,—and in three days a canoe was completed. In this the baggage was safely passed over the river, with the exception of one load. The firearms and provisions were reserved for the last trip of the canoe, and unfortunately, when near its destination, in consequence of one of the men becoming frightened and attempting to jump out, the canoe was capsized, and its contents irretrievably lost. Half the men were on one side of the river and half on the other, and all the firearms and provisions, except a small quantity of panola, were at the bottom of the river. After deliberating some time, it was determined to send Mr. Heap and others of the party to Taos for provisions and arms, Mr. Beale remaining near the river with the men. Messrs. Riggs and Rodgers accompanied Mr. Heap to New Mexico, and returned to the United States. The superintendent soon found it necessary to remove from the river a short distance to the mountains, where the game was more abundant; and on the third day after Mr. Heap's departure about twenty Utahs came into camp. They were somewhat impudent at first; but Mr. Beale put on a bold face, and knowing that he was wholly in their power, upon their invitation, accompanied them to their lodges. These Indians were all well armed and well mounted, and the valley in which they lived was found to be full of horses, undoubtedly stolen from California and New Mexico.—Having gained the friendship of these Indians, Mr. Beale lived with them upon the most amicable terms, hunting with them, and sharing whatever game was obtained, until the return of Mr. Heap from Taos.

In seventeen days after the accident at the river, Mr. Heap returned, and the march of the expedition was resumed. Grand river was crossed, and here the Indians for the first time exhibited any evidences of hostility. A large band of Utahs returning from a buffalo hunt, had encamped near the river, and their lodges dotted the valley for a great distance. When the superintendent came up the Indians drew their bows, and demanded powder, balls and tobacco. There were at least three hundred warriors, armed with rifles and bows and arrows. Mr. Beale told them that he had nothing to give them, and that, although the Indians were strong enough to kill him and his party, yet, as he was well armed, a great many of the Indians would be killed in return. Many of the savages persisted in fighting; but, after a great deal of talking, wiser counsels prevailed, and the expedition was allowed to proceed.

The Indians for several days hovered about,—apparently with the design of stealing some of the animals; but by keeping his party together, and guarding his animals vigilantly, Mr. Beale met with no loss, and came on to the Avonkaree river. This stream is not put down upon any map. It is a large, deep and rapid river, too rapid to raft, and as wide as the Missouri at Kansas. Here a boat was made of bull hides. A hide boat, you must know, is the safest boat that can be made, and it is also very easily constructed. Two hides are fastened together at the ends, and then stretched over a willow frame, shaped to the purpose required. While a wooden boat would have a hole knocked through by the first stone it struck, a hide boat might pound upon the rocks for a long time without injury. A canoe easily upset, but it is very difficult to upset one of these boats. The frame-work, being woven basket-fashion, gives a stiffness to the boat and a symmetrical form, with the precise proportion desired. All the equipage was safely passed over the Avonkaree, and here Mr. Beale found a party of Mexicans in perfect despair as to how they should proceed. They had been waiting 21 days for the water to subside. They dared not turn back, for, in crossing Green river, they had lost two of their men, and they could not go forward. Their prospect seemed gloomy enough until the appearance of Mr. Beale, who conveyed them across the river, and sent them on their way rejoicing. The superintendent then proceeded to Green river, which was crossed in a similar manner as the Avonkaree, and with the same hides, which had been packed upon a mule.

The expedition then pushed on rapidly to Little Salt Lake, where there is a flourishing Mormon settlement. Here the people were found to be in a state of great alarm. Walker, the Utah chief, had made war upon the Mormons, had killed several men, and driven off upwards of 500 head of cattle. He had sent them word that the war was to continue four years, and that he was determined to capture all their horses and cattle. The Mormons had abandoned Paragona, a beautiful little town, leaving their houses and grain-fields in the valley near the lake, and had removed to Parawan, a larger settlement, about six miles distant, in order to give it greater strength. Walker is a remarkable Indian. He is not a chief by hereditary right, but has risen to his present position as supreme chief of the Utahs solely by his own energies. He makes annual incursions into this country, and it is estimated that within the last four years he has driven off not less than two thousand horses.

Leaving the Mormon settlements, Mr. Beale passed through the Vegas Santa Clara, beautiful mountain meadows, covered with fine grass, and containing numerous springs of excellent water, and came down the Santa Clara river to a village of Pah-Utahs. These Indians are the declared enemies of the white race, and Mr. Beale, knowing it was of no use to parley with them, marched boldly to the chief, and demanded that he should guard his horses for the night. Strange as it may appear, the Indians took the superintendent's animals to good grass, watched them during the night, and returned them safely the next morning. I suspect this is first instance wherein a Pah-Utah has neglected to steal a horse when he had the opportunity.

From the Santa Clara to the muddy river, every night the Pah-Utahs were hovering about,—but they committed no depredations. At the Muddy, a great number of Indians had assembled, but not more than twelve were permitted to come into the camp at one time, the rest being kept at a respectful distance. One of these Indians (Pah-Utah) said that he wanted to see more of the Americans and begged Mr. Beale to take him along. Supposing he would speedily turn back, the superintendent told him he could go on to California if he would travel on foot; and thereupon the Indian joined the expedition.

Leaving the Muddy river, Mr. Beale marched rapidly to the first jornada (day's march) over the desert. Upon the first jornada the party started at three o'clock in the afternoon, and having traveled as fast as they could, at seven o'clock the next morning reached the Vegas Erétano, a pretty meadow, with a fine stream of water.—Two days more brought them to the second jornada, a stretch of sandy desert, extending from the Amogosa to the Tadera spring, about sixty miles. The Amogosa was left at two o'clock in the afternoon, and at four o'clock the next morning every riding animal was so much fatigued that it was necessary for the riders to take to foot. After traveling six hours on foot, from six o'clock until ten, the Tio Mesa was reached.—Tio Mesa is the name of a spring of bitter water, with but little grass about it, and situated in the midst of a frightfully barren country. During all this time the Pah-Utah had kept up with the animals, and came to the Tio Mesa as fresh as any of the party, and there drank a full gallon of the bitter water with evident gusto. There are many melancholy legends connected with the Tio Mesa; but as I have already extended this letter to a greater length than I at first intended, I will reserve mention of them for a future communication.

From the Tio Mesa to the Mohave, and from thence to Los Angelos, the expedition met with no remarkable incident. As the dried beef had become spoiled, the party was compelled to subsist upon game; but this so frequently happens to explorers as to be scarcely worth mentioning. Mr. Beale examined the country about the Mohave with reference to its adaption to an Indian reservation; but, although many good camping places were found, no spots of good land were discovered of sufficient extent for the purpose in view.

The animals appear in better order than would supposed after so fatiguing a journey. While Mr. Beale was delayed at Grand river, the animals were despatched to Taos and back, a distance of nearly eight hundred miles, which was accomplished in sixteen days, and this distance must be added to that traveled on the route from Westport to this place.

I take pleasure in stating that Mr. Beale and all his party are in excellent health and spirits. The trip has been accomplished in a remarkable short space of time, when the circumstances which occasioned the delay are taken into consideration. Deducting the detention at Fort Atkinson, Fort Massachusetts, and at Grand river, the trip has consumed but forty-nine days, which must be set down as one of the shortest on record. These delays were not at all incident to the route, but were altogether extraordinary; and be it remembered that, for nearly the whole distance the expedition was without a guide. When the history of this expedition is fully written out it will be found to form a valuable addition to the geography of North America, for much of the country travelled over by Mr. Beale is put down on the maps as "unexplored."

Mr. Beale left town this morning on an expedition through the Tulare valley, to have a talk with the various Indian tribes in that locality,—and to look out lands for reservations, in accordance with the recent acts of Congress. He is accompanied by Benjamin D. Wilson, sup. the Indian agent for this section of country, and by several of the gentlemen who came with him on his overland trip. The peculiar fitness of Mr. Beale to the position which he occupies I need not mention. You yourself know his efficiency, perhaps better than I do.

Closing of the Crystal Palace.—It is advertised that the Crystal Palace will be closed in December, and as that may mean the first of December, it is possible that little more than six weeks remain for visiting the exhibition, and the New York journals are therefore calling upon the resident citizens to visit it, as, thus far, nearly all the visitors have been strangers. The stock is selling at 55 or 45 below par. Before the opening it was up as high as 170.

Low Fares—Triumph of the Hudson River Railroad.

The Hudson River Railroad, in face of the most powerful opposition, set the first example of really low fares. For this it was denounced, as attempting what was really impossible, and thus causing a failure, to the injury of railroad stock. The Hudson River R. R. however has triumphed, and proved most incontestibly that their position was correct, and that low fares are in the end sound policy. The American Railroad Journal very handsomely acknowledges the success of the Hudson, which it had previously controverted.

Let us look at the circumstances of the case, and see if what the Hudson has done, cannot be done by all.

The Hudson R. R. Road was built on, or through solid rock, for much of the distance, and passing likewise through very valuable lands, it was immensely expensive. It was on the bank of the Hudson, where the finest steamboats in the country ran and at very low prices. It was essential then, that on the most costly road in the country, there should be the lowest fares with the highest speed. The policy of this company was to pursue this course, and it has succeed against all opposition.

After the most desperate efforts, and with burnings and blow-ups, the competition of steamboats has failed. The number of passengers on the Railway has been steadily increasing, and that of steamboats diminishing.

Now the fare on the Hudson R. R. Road is 1½ cent per mile. From Fishkill Landing to New York (50 miles), is 75 cents fare; while from Cincinnati to Dayton (60 miles) is $1 50—just double. On most railroads the fare is three cents per mile.

The speed of the express trains on the Hudson River is forty miles per hour, while between Cincinnati and Dayton it is not 30.

The cost of the Hudson R. R. Road, per mile, is double that of the Cincinnati and Dayton line.

But it may be said, that the Hudson River Railroad can do this, because it has such an immense number of passengers. Very true; but it has created those passengers by its low fares.—The number of passengers going up the Hudson River now, is more than double the whole number previous to the establishment of the Railroad; of which the whole additional number has been created by the Railroad.

It may be said, that in the West, the population is not great enough; but low fares is the way to bring that population on to the line of the Railway. Suppose the fare between Cincinnati and Dayton was 75 cents, and to Hamilton 30 cents, would not the passengers be more than doubled? Unquestionably. More than that, too—the population on the line of the road would increase much faster; and the company would create for itself a business, which no competition would take away.

But, we would reduce Western fares only to two cents per mile, one that we know can be sustained profitably. Steamboats carry passengers at about one cent per mile profitably. It may be said that a river costs nothing. No; but running steamboats costs a great deal. It is perfectly clear, that, at double the steamboat fares, railways will make for the most profit.

We do not mention this because the people have much cause to complain; but because we think it beyond doubt, the true policy of Railway companies to reduce their fares to the lowest possible rate. Competition will then be discouraged until the companies will build up a business of their own which will render their stock permanently valuable.

The best part of Railway receipts—that which is most profitable—is derived from local passengers; but this is a traffic, which once obtained, cannot be taken away.

Now, how is this to be increased? By making it profitable and pleasant for large numbers of people to reside on the line of the Railway. This the Hudson River Railroad has done to a very extraordinary extent in the last three years.—Their management is well worth examining.—Railroad Record.

Thrilling Adventure of a Young Lady.—In one of the most sober towns of Hampshire county, where the Maine Law is strictly observed, the keeper of one of the hotels has, for several months past, kept a bottle or two of liquors in the bed where he sleeps, taking care to remove them every night when he went to bed, and replace them, when he got up in the morning. A few days since, after replenishing his bottles and not having a good opportunity to carry them to their old quarters, he slipped them under the bolsters of one of the beds reserved for travelers, and being called out of town to spend the following night forgot to remove them. It unfortunately happened that a young lady traveler stopped at the hotel for the night and was conducted by an unsuspecting servant girl to the room where the liquors had been deposited. As the evening grew late the young lady went to bed and was soon fast asleep, little dreaming of the mischievous spirits which were working under her pillow. About midnight when all had become still, the secreted liquor—owing to the heat of the weather, or the warmth imparted to it by the sleeper—expanded to such a degree as to defy longer confinement. Pop! pop! went the corks of both bottles almost simultaneously, making a noise almost as loud as the report of as many pistols, and awakening the fair sleeper, who sprang from the bed, uttering such wild terrific screams that every person in the house immediately aroused. The moon shone bright enough for the lady to discover the red liquor upon her night dress, and with the conviction that she had been shot she fainted and fell to the floor. A dozen servants immediately burst into the lady's room and were horrified at finding her lying upon the floor weltering in blood. All believed that she had cruelly murdered by some assassin; or that she had committed suicide. A light, however, convinced them that she still breathed. No time was lost in sending for a surgeon, whilst the half dressed inmates of the house commenced a search for the assassin, or the instrument which had been employed to perpetrate the horrid deed.—On examining the bed it was found to be drenched with what was supposed blood of young lady but a strong smell of brandy caused one to investigate a little farther, when the two bottles—one partially filled with red wine and the other with brandy—were discovered under the pillow! How the doctor came, how the lady recovered, and and how the landlord tried to hush up the affair, the next day, can be better imagined than we can describe.

An Incident.—At the Woman's Rights Convention, in Cleveland, Wm. Lloyd Garrison having called Rev. Mr. Nevin, in debate, "a liar, a rowdy and a scoundrel," according to the Cleveland Herald, the following sequel is said to have occurred:

"As the audience passed out of the Hall, Mr. Nevin's brother, a layman, met him and inquired whether those words were uttered in the heat of debate or coolly. Retraction was refused, and the brother twisted Mr. Garrison's nose as he hurled him against the wall of the Melodeon. Recovering his position, Mr. Garrison said "do you treat gentlemen so?" "No," was the answer, "I treat no gentleman so, but so I treat William Lloyd Garrison."

☞ Leahey, convicted of the murder of Manley, it is expected will be sentenced during the present term, to imprisonment for life, as the Supreme Court refused to grant a new trial.

American Citizens Abroad.

The Philadelphia Ledger gives an account of an interesting case that recently occurred in Bremen, in which was involved the question of the right of an individual to throw off his allegiance to another government and become a citizen of the United States, and how far that voluntary act of citizenship entitled him to the protection of the United States Government. Conrad Schmidt, formerly a subject of the Government of Hanover, but recently a citizen of the United States, and having a passport from the Department of State at Washington, was arrested by the Bremen Director of Police upon a requisition from the Hanoverian Government.

Mr. King, U. S. Consul at Bremen, protested against his arrest, and declared that a refusal to release the man would require redress in damages. The fact was made known to Mr. Barnard, U. S. Minister at Berlin, and he approved of Mr. King's proceedings. In Mr. Barnard's letter to Mr. King, he distinctly declares that if Schmidt is surrendered by Bremen to Hanover, the Government of the United States would demand his unconditional release and restoration. That if Schmidt owed any service to Hanover, it is on a claim resting upon a notion that the allegiance of the subject cannot be renounced without the consent of the Sovereign.

This notion, the American Minister declares, is no part of the code of public or national law. If it be the law of Hanover, it has no force beyond her own dominions. Every law of a State stops at the territorial boundaries of that State—it can proceed no farther—it cannot invade another State. Mr. Schmidt, in Bremen, is as much beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Hanover as if he were in the United States. And being there in the character of a citizen of the United States, with unquestioned proofs of citizenship, if Hanover stretches the law of her prerogative over him within her own territorial limits, which she can only do by the free assent of Bremen, he does not hesitate to declare that such assent of Bremen to such a measure cannot fail to be regarded as a serious offence to the United States.

Bremen has no right to make herself the instrument for enabling Hanover thus to extend her prerogative and laws so as to reach this citizen of the United States beyond her proper jurisdiction.

Mr. Schmidt was, the day after the reception of this note, released, and all his effects restored.

This principle is good so far as it goes, but it does not reach the case of a naturalized citizen who places himself again within the limits of the country from which he had voluntarily severed his allegiance. The right of Schmidt to claim the protection of his adopted country, even in Hanover, if he goes there in pursuit of his lawful business, is still undecided, though this is a matter of great importance to thousands of naturalized citizens.

Piquant and Patriotic.

The following sentiments are just such as we like to see go the rounds, and hence we give them "a lift." The extract is from Harper's Magazine:

Four splendid events have occurred in our foreign intercourse which have stamped themselves upon the memories and hearts of many in Europe. When the noble frigate the Macedonian, a war ship no more,

"Shorn of her eclipse and clad with cover shall,"

but a messenger of love, freighted with the generous, voluntary contributions of the American people, to the starving people of Ireland, a thrill of electric joy, passing through the frames of the sufferers was caught and carried round the globe, as far as the deed was heard. When, too, the inevitable Jackson extorted from lingering France the just dues of our citizens, on the single emphatic "Pay or we'll you," the old diplomats of Europe, accustomed only to protocolling, intriguing, postponing, ultimatums, and ultimatissimums, raised their drowsy heads, to ask with some astonishment, "Who is this impertinent young genius that dares to talk to a venerable monarchy in this strain?" So also the able reply of Mr. Webster to the impertinence of Hulsemann, fell with a crash among the mouldy archives of Vienna. But no event, we suspect, has been of more efficiency in awakening the old world to a consciousness of our existence, than the prompt, decided, and glorious act of Captain Ingraham, when in the face of the Austrian fleet, he threw the national ægis over the prostrate form of a poor Hungarian exile and pointed to his guns.—The shout of Vive la Republique, which for the first time, perhaps, circled around the hills of Smyrna, was echoed from the hearts, if not the voices, of many thousands of men.

Extravagance on Gentlemen.—The newspapers have rather unmercifully referred to the extravagances of the ladies in articles of dress and ornaments, but it would appear that gentlemen were liable to the same censure in the prices paid for many articles of dress now in vogue. The most fashionable cravats are sold at five dollars. The fall style of velvet vests range from $10 to $22 each. Most of the desirable patterns of the best quality have been already taken at prices above $20.

In the matter of vests buttons, there is great extravagance. We hear of sales of single setts at upwards of a hundred dollars, and the jewellers on Washington street have elegant styles ranging from $10 to $20 a button, or from $60 to $120 a set of six. At the latter price a superb set with diamond centres can be obtained.

The finest shirts on exhibition in Faneuil Hall cost twelve dollars each, and a small fortune is required for a "fashionable suit" of gentlemen's clothes.—Boston Transcript.

TURKEY.—Prince Gortschakoff's Attempt to Poison Omer Pacha.—Prince Gortschakoff had resolved to remove Omer Pacha, and for this purpose he or his emissaries had tried to poison that gallant general, who has already done so much towards the regeneration of Turkey. It appears that a European Physician, who arrived some months back at Constantinople, obtained by dint of solicitation, the direction of the military hospital of Schumla. It seems that Omer Pacha soon perceived that this person kept up mysterious relations with Russian spies, and in consequence he kept on his guard. Soon after, being warned that there was an intention to poison him, he feigned to be indisposed, and sent for the medical man in question to attend him. This person, after examining the patient, went out to prepare a calming potion, which, on his return, he presented to Omer Pacha to drink. The general in Chief of the Turkish army requested the physician to taste it first himself, and as the other refused to do so, he forced him to drink the whole of it in his presence. Seeing that the physician then wanted to hurry out, he forced him to remain in the tent, in order that he might judge of the effect of the potion. At the end of some hours the physician died from the poison.—Paris Constitutional.

☞ A German colony has been for a couple of years, settled in Pickens district, South Carolina, on a tract of 20,000 acres of land, which it has purchased in common to be divided among the several families of the community. Houses have been erected, and a village laid out, named "Walhalla," and schools and churches have been instituted; and, according to the Charleston Standard, it is "one of the most beautiful specimens of primitive society to be met with in any country.

A Highway to the Pacific.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: We some days since received a copy of a pamphlet entitled "A Few Remarks on a Railroad to the Pacific" by "a member of the Philadelphia bar." The subject is treated with much ability, and many interesting facts are stated. Several passages are quite eloquent. After reviewing the whole ground the writer gives the subjoined, as demonstrated truths, in the contingency of the successful construction of a great highway to the Pacific:

1. It will necessarily secure to us a virtual monopoly of the Chinese and Japanese markets.

2. Besides the mails of this continent, those of all Europe, for all parts of eastern, middle and southern Asia, and of all European possessions in the Pacific, will be carried over this equally safe and expeditious route, and this mail service will in itself constitute a large source of revenue.

3. The United States mails between the two great sections of the Union will be carried over this road with a great saving of expense to the nation and of time to the commercial community and with a certainty that cannot be otherwise attained.

4. All the travel of Europe for the larger portion of Asia and all the eastern Pacific islands will pass over this road, both going and returning.

5. It will be a cheap and safe medium of conveyance of domestic exchanges and commerce to the amount of millions on millions every year between the great regions of the Pacific and the Atlantic States.

6. It will afford an outlet to the shores of the two oceans for all the productions of the Mississippi valley States, and enable us to supply with bread the crowded population both of Europe and Asia.

7. It will largely increase the business of all railroads running through the States, from the main trunk to any Atlantic seaport.

8. It will employ, during the years consumed in building it, thousands of our laboring people in a healthy climate, and will offer facilities to emigration, and will be the means of carrying population to our territories, and of creating new and happy States in the vast wilderness of the continent.

9. It will be a mighty bond of union, of safety, and of peace, between our own American States and with the world.

10. It will enable the government to discharge certain constitutional obligations of defence and protection under which the United States exist in respect to each one of the States, and which, so far as California is concerned, cannot be properly discharged without some such means of speedy and direct communication between herself and the other States of the confederacy.

11. It will act as a powerful stimulus on the industrial prosperity of the whole country, and particularly on the business interests of our great Pacific and Atlantic seaports.

12. It will be the great world road of commerce.

The Empire of Mexico.—In the opinion of persons well informed in Mexican affairs, a plan has been maturing, since the recall of Santa Anna, to convert the and Mexican Republic into an Empire, and to make him its Emperor. His general movements indicate strongly that such are his intentions. He takes Louis Napoleon as his model, and closely imitates the course he pursued before the 2d of December, in France. He expects to attain his object by a similar coup d'etat in Mexico. This project is supposed to be countenanced by European Monarchs, who fear the example of our Republican institutions, and would check their spread on this continent. It is thought proper, however, to get up an official denial of this plan, to go forth to the world, and Gen. Almonte, under instructions, no doubt, publishes a letter to answer that purpose. He may believe his denial true, but the world does not. The general belief is, that Santa Anna is to establish an Empire, backed by England and France. It may not be so, but the course of events in Mexico and rumors apparently from intelligent sources, indicates such to be the plan.

Foreign postage.—Information has just reached the Post Office Department, through the Bremen office, that the Post Office Department of Prussia, of the Grand Duchy of Mecklenburg Strelitz, and of the Duchy of Saxony Altenburg have reduced their postage to and from Bremen on letters to and from the United States, to the uniform rate of five cents, making the full rate of postage to from those States, respectively, by the Bremen line of steamers, fifteen cents, instead of twenty two, the rate hitherto charged.—Balt. Sun.

Sure Enough!—The Woodbury Bank, Connecticut, collapsed about a year ago, by fore-ordination, and its bills have since been speedily bought up at 25 to 50 cents on the dollar. That accomplished, the Bank is ready to resume payment, the Receiver advertises that he is ready to pay all claims upon it; and The Courant (Hartford) coolly observes:

"Holders of bills need not, therefore, make any sacrifice on them."

No, they need n't!—in fact, we guess they nearly all made the reverse of a sacrifice.

We respectfully request our patrons, present and future, not to send us any bills of the Woodbury Bank, no matter how swaggering may be its resumption. We don't feel at all sure of our ability to tell which thimble the little joker is under. "Now you see it and now you don't!"

Seriously—is it not time that all these old Bank charters, granted on a vicious, exploded principle should be repealed? Good, sound Banks, which have been doing an honorable business since they were chartered, might be exempted; but all others should be expressly abolished and Banking henceforth prosecuted under well-guarded general laws, with ample security in the public chest.—N. Y. Tribune.

Bonnets.—The Dublin Evening Mail has the following bit on bonnets: "We may mention, for the information of our fair readers, that the Queen wore a pink bonnet, (on her visit to the Exhibition,) which her Majesty wore on her head, be it remarked, and whose shape we wish we could induce the fashionable milliners to adopt, instead of those absurd things which now-a-days hang half-way down the backs of young ladies, a brazen, barefaced expression to the fairest and most delicate features, and an appearance of being high shouldered, to the most gracefully figures.

A minister, travelling where the road was difficult to find, requested a man by the wayside to direct him, naming the place where he wished to go.

"Well, said the hedger and ditcher," keep on just as you are going about a mile and a half; there at the cross roads you will see a minister, who will direct you to the left a couple of miles, and there at the fork of the road is another minister, who will direct you to the right about three or four miles, and so on at every fork and cross of the road, is a minister to tell you which road to take."

"Ah," says the parson "what do you call ministers?"

"Why, says the other, those things which stand up at the cross and forks of the road with something like a hand on them."

"Finger boards, you mean," says the preacher, "why do you call them ministers?"

"Because they are always pointing the way to other people, and never go there else."

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1853.

Failure of the Bank of Massillon!—A telegraphic despatch this morning reports that the Bank of Massillon, Ohio, has failed.

The Star that never sets!—Vermont has elected a democratic Governor! Where can whiggery hide its diminished head, now its boasted star in the East has set!

After several ballotings, the Legislature elected Hon. John Robinson, democrat, Governor, as follows:—For Robinson, dem., 120; Fairbanks, whig, 104; Brainard, free-soil, 15.

☞ Hon. John Pettit, U. S. Senator, has recently been paying a visit to the "Northern tier." He stopped at Michigan City, to see for himself the Harbor Improvements that are needed there, to converse with its citizens as to their views, to learn the extent of its Commerce, &c—and then, after a short stay here, attended the Agricultural Fair at Goshen, and returned home, we believe, via Sturgis and Fort Wayne. During his visit here, we had the pleasure of a call from him at our sanctum, where he saw our Power Press throwing off papers at the rate of 16 per minute, and acknowledged that it was something of an "institution" for a country office.

Mr. Pettit is entitled to credit for leaving his business and making this visit to the only Lake Port of our State, in order to familiarize himself personally with its just claims on the General Government; and from what we know of him, we expect him to tell his fellow members at Washington, next winter, in the frankest language, what Indiana demands in the way of Harbor improvements.—South Bend Register.

☞ Mr. Pettit reached here on Saturday night, and remained until Monday morning, when he proceeded to Lafayette. Several of our citizens embraced the opportunity to pay their respects to the Hon. Gentleman. He is perhaps "the best abused man" in the State; his firm, unflinching, and honest support of what he believes to be right, has made him a favorite target for all the pop-guns of whiggery; but if we may judge from his appearance, their puny assaults have not ruffled his mind, nor impaired his digestion.—He has hosts of warm personal friends, and all who know him give him the credit of being one of the ablest men and most honest politicians in the State. He will yet achieve an enviable national reputation, and be an honor to his State.

Colerick's Concert Hall.—This splendid and commodious building is rapidly hastening towards completion. It is a structure that has been much needed here, and its enterprising owner deserves the thanks of the community for his enterprise in furnishing such an accommodation. It is of the largest size, calculated to seat comfortably from 1,000 to 1,200 persons, is lofty and well ventilated, and will be surpassed either in size or finish by few if any Halls in the State.

It is expected to be finished on or about the 1st December next, and will be opened by Mr. Kimball, the well-known vocalist from Boston, with an amateur CONCERT of vocal music.—We have not learned the particulars, but have no doubt a good entertainment will be provided—such an one as will be worthy the occasion of the opening of this noble Concert Hall.

Singular Coincidence.—During the war between England and China, the Celestials had a legion in the field, whose dresses were ornamented with strange devices of fiends and monsters; their faces were horribly painted, and each man was armed with two swords which he was to clash together in the face of the enemy, at the same time looking fierce and terrible, yelling loudly, and using other cunning arts to intimidate their fearful adversaries and fright them from their propriety. Much was expected from this dreadful legion,—more perhaps than was realized. When they first came in contact with the enemy, the sturdy "barbarians" were astounded at their novel appearance and tactics. They soon, however, saw into the joke, and grounding their arms gave way to uncontrollable laughter. The terrible legion thereupon left the field, vaunting that the "barbarians" had "grounded their arms" and "beat a retreat."

Johnny Dawson of the Times is imitating this policy of Johnny Chinaman. He has clothed his paper with all the fiends and hobgoblins his depraved and diseased imagination could conjure up, has put on full as fierce and indignant look, rattling his edgeless swords in our face, and not only full, but actually holling over with sound and fury. When we grounded our arms to press our hands to our sides to prevent our mirth at his grotesque antics from bursting off our button, he affects to mistake it for a retreat, and suing for peace. All a mistake, Johnny, into which you seem very willing to fall. We have not retreated, neither do we sue for peace, nor pledge ourselves to "keep still" and submit to your castigations. On the contrary, we shall hold you to your promise, and insist on your being with us "every Wednesday until the 7th day of September, 1854," and if ever your "castigations" should be worthy of notice, we will notice them. We do not think it necessary to step aside to kick every whiffet that may bark at us, whatever we may do if they bite.

No crawling out, Johnny. Don't act the false prophet, and cry "peace, peace, when there is no peace." We have promised ourselves many a hearty laugh during the approaching long winter nights over your impotent, malignant effusions and ludicrous attempts at humor and sarcasm, and we are not to be fooled out of it in this way. Stick to your promise—you will feel all the better, both in mind and body, for getting so much trash and gall off your stomach, and we shall feel a philanthropic satisfaction in being the cause of preventing its striking in, and depriving society of so bright an ornament as you must prove, if your mind can be kept in proper tone. Remember—every Wednesday until September next.

OYSTERS.—R. C. Filson, who has for some two or three seasons past furnished our citizens with fresh Baltimore oysters, has again got his express in operation, and will regularly receive a supply of fresh oysters put up in their own liquor, hermetically sealed in cans and kegs, and put through on the lightening express, so as to reach here as fresh and good as the day they are taken from their beds in the sea. We have tried them and can recommend them as just the thing. Our citizens can now regale themselves with this luxury at almost as cheap a rate as they are furnished in the eastern cities. His depot is at T. K. Brackenridge's.

What has become of the Lafayette Courier? We have not received it for the last three or four weeks. Is the paper stopped—or is the editor so lifted up since the State Fair was held in the Star City that he cannot any longer notice his more humble brethren of the country press?—We pause for a reply.

The Toledo Commercial Republican is now printed on an entire new fount of type, which gives it quite a neat appearance. We are pleased to notice this sign of the prosperity of the establishment. It is an excellent paper, every way worthy a liberal support.

The United States Illustrated.—We have received part 4 and 5 of this splendid work, which fully maintains the high character acquired by the preceding numbers. The "West" contains splendidly engraved views of New Harmony, Ind., St. Charles Mo., Burlington, Iowa, Prairie du Rocher, and 4 views on the Upper Mississippi.—The engravings in the "East" are Genesee Falls, Katterskill Falls, Chapel of our Lady (on the Hudson,) Columbia Bridge, (Susquehanna,) Trenton High Falls, Trenton Falls, (N. Y.,) Gowanus Heights, and Table Rock, Niagara.

HERRMAN J. MEYER, Publisher, 164 William Street, N. York.

Meyer's Universum. We have received parts 6 and 7 of this beautiful and cheap publication, each containing 4 well executed engravings of scenery, in various parts of the world, with appropriate letter press descriptions. It is published in semi-monthly numbers, each containing 4 plates, at 25 cents, by HERRMAN J. MEYER, N. York.

HELEN MULGRAVE; or Jesuit Executorship.—There is, probably no class of works which so entirely absorb the attention, and imbue the mind with the lessons they inculcate, as those which portray, in clear and natural language, without any attempt at rhetorical flourishes, or constrained effort at effect, incidents in the eventful history of some person of whom we can say to ourselves, "this is just like Mr. or Mrs. So-and-So." It is their very naturalness which constitutes their charm. For with books as with persons—to be admired they must be natural; it was this feature which created such enthusiasm in favor of the works of Currer Bell, and, were they divested of this peculiar characteristic, they would be robbed of all that interested us. We are led to make these remarks from the perusal of the excellent work, the title of which is given above, which has been forwarded to us by the publishers, Messrs De Witt & Davenport, New York. We would advise our readers to procure this work at once, for we are well assured that it will prove a profitable investment of both time and money.

For sale at Burroughs' Book Store.

THE MONK'S REVENGE; or, the Secret Enemy, is the title of an excellent romance just received from the enterprising firm of De Witt & Davenport, New York. The incidents of this romance belong to an age when men earned renown only on the battle-field, and sought repose in the lap of beauty. The Christian and the Pagan hosts are here brought vividly before the reader, and their desperate encounters are rendered more sanguinary and ruthless by the influence of fanaticism. It is a well-written book, by a popular author, and lacks none of the more prominent elements of success. It furnishes an admirable portraiture of the times when religious enthusiasm led whole countries to enlist under the Banners of the Cross and wage exterminating war in the name of the Holy Church.

It can be had at Burroughs' Book Store in this city.

Sale of Durham Cattle.—The choice Durham cattle brought here by the Allen Co. Stock Association, were disposed of at public sale on Tuesday last; and we are pleased to add, realised a good per centage above cost. The attendance of farmers was large, and the competition of bidders quite spirited. The result of the experiment shows that a proper feeling is excited among our farmers in regard to the improvement of their stock, and we have every reason to hope that in a few years Allen county will become as famous for its fine stock as it now is for wheat. For grass no county in the state can beat us, and now that our farmers are turning their attention to stock raising, and seeking to improve their breeds by a judicious cross of the best varieties, there can be no doubt that Allen is destined to rank high as a grazing county.

Below we give a list of the cattle sold, with the names of the buyers, and the prices.

☞ DR. E. W. H. ELLIS of Indianapolis was chairman of the Committee on Miscellaneous Articles at the State Fair, and was exceeding active, prompt, efficient, obliging in the discharge of his duties. The committee's report was marked with the Doctor's genial good humor and correct comprehension of the qualities of the articles examined. Their duties were very arduous. A place on that committee is not an enviable one, and the public have reason to be under obligations to the gentlemen who have acted on it at our Fair.—Ind. Journal.

HOGS.—We clip the following paragraph from the Prairie City, of Terre Haute.

In this city it is the general opinion among the hog dealers, that the ruling price of pork this season, will be from $3,50 to 3.75 per hundred.—Our farmers and pork raisers, stimulated by their success and the high price paid for this sale last season, have, as a consequence, gone into the business more extensively, this year, and it is predicted that in this region both the quantity and quality will far surpass the production of last year.

The population of Turkey.—The population of Turkey in Asia is 13,700,000, and that of Turkey in Europe 15,500,000, making a total of nearly 30,000,000; nearly equal to the population in France, although the country is not so thickly settled. The population of Russia nearly doubles that of Turkey.

Effectually Silenced.—It is said Secretary Guthrie, in 1843 and 1844, wrote a very strong native American letter. By all means have it brought to light.—Cleveland Herald.

We shall not let charges against Mr. Guthrie that we know to be unfounded, go uncontradicted. Neither "in 1843 or 1844" nor any other year did Mr. G. write a Native American letter. He was never tainted in the slightest degree with the Native American heresy.—Louisville Journal.

From Chicago to Philadelphia.

The North America Gazette, of a late date contains an article giving some important statistical and general information in relation to the construction of the "North Western Railroad." This road, when completed, will from the best possible main trunk line from this city to tide water. As such it assumes an importance to our citizens which it would not otherwise possess.

The North Western Railroad company was recently incorporated by an act of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and its charter provides for the construction of a railroad from the Pennsylvania and Ohio state line, or from the point of intersection with the Cleveland and Mahoning railroad on the west, to the Pennsylvania railroad near Blairsville, Indiana county. A supplemental act authorizes a connection with the Pennsylvania central road, at any point in Cambria county. The route actually surveyed, and which will probably be adopted extends from New Castle, in Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, to Blairsville, where it will connect, temporarily with a railway of three miles in length, now in operation to a point of junction with the Pennsylvania Central road.

The total distance from New Castle to Blairsville, is eighty four and a half miles, and it is estimated that the cost of grading and bridging the route will reach one million three hundred and seventy-five dollars—averaging about $16,272 per mile. The completion of this road will place Philadelphia in direct communication with Cleveland, Sandusky, Detroit, and Chicago, and give the latter city one thousand miles of continuous railway, and enable our citizens to reach tide water without change of guage, by passing over a distance of only 806 miles, a shorter route than any other now in existence.

The Gazette furnishes the following table of distance from the Lakes to the Atlantic cities, by which the advantages of this line, in point of distance is seen at a glance.

Chicago to Goshen, by Michigan South. R. R		..	112

From this statement it is apparent that the Mahoning and North Western roads form shortest route, in connection with their western extensions, from Chicago to Philadelphia in linear distance, while they have also the great advantage of superiority in respect of grades and curvature. There is on the Northern Indiana road one straight reach of seventy miles, and the aggregate curvature on the entire line is but ninety degrees. The maximum grade between Chicago and Swanton, 212 miles of distance, is only 20 feet per mile, and from the last named point, with some inconsiderable exceptions, the route to New Castle has no grades over 26 feet. The entire line, excepting the North Western link, is in operation, or under contract, and when the whole chain is completed it will constitute the longest unbroken extent of iron highway in the world.—Chicago Tribune.

Wonderful Progress of the Illinois Central Railroad.—It is but little over one year since this great work, near 700 miles in length, the longest in the United States, was undertaken. The Executive Committee are now in this state examining the line, and they post up their books as follows:

Three quarters of the whole work is graded.

They have more iron on hand than will be necessary to complete the whole road.

The entire amount of money necessary for the completion of road has provided for.

One-third of the whole road will be in running order and operated by January 1st next.

The Board of Directors hope to be able to have the whole road in operation by January 1st, 1855.—Chicago Democrat.

Facts about the New York Split.

The Albany Atlas gives the following succinct account, which we believe in the main to be a truthful one, of the condition of affairs in New York:

The Democratic Convention at Syracuse was legitimately composed of 128 members. Of this number 50 were what had been known as Barnburners, and 78 were of the opposite section of party, supporters of Cass in 1848. Of this 78, 48 acted throughout with the regular Convention leaving 30 bolters to form the Parlor Convention, and to pick up delegates from the street to fill up their lists. There were some pretended contestants; but no one believed them more rightfully elected than their associates from the streets.

The Convention, thus composed nearly equally from both sections of the party, nominated a ticket of seven original Cass men, and three Barnburners. The resolutions were such as the bolters themselves might have passed.

It is under such circumstances that the Croswells, Maurices and Storys, who had, as far back as 1849, begged for union, labored for a consolidation of the two sections on the basis of the widest toleration in regard to opinions on slavery, and who had proffered a conjunction with the Barnburners, as a free soil party, on the basis of equal division of officers—it is under such circumstances that these men bolt now.

It is under such circumstances that Bronson and O'Connor, who tinkered up the union of the party, and were the first to take office under it, and bolt the nominations—and cling to their offices.

They embraced the Barnburners, when they were a distinctive body, organized apart and presenting a seperate ticket, and advocating measures then pending, now adjusted. Four years later they repudiate a ticket composed of 7 out of their own friends, presented by a convention composed equally of both sections, upon a platform of their own choice—and without being able to point to a single act in the National or State administration, at which they can justly take offense.

They repudiate Democratic union: but they do not repudiate the offices which, in the proportion of three to one, have been bestowed on their friends.

Russian Invasion of the Sandwich Islands.—The Alta California says:

"We learn from private advices received in this city, that a vast emigration of Russians, said to be 12,000 in number, is in preparation for the Sandwich Islands, under the immediate auspices of the Emperor. If our information is correct, and we have no reason to doubt its truth, it will be necessary for the government of the United States to take immediate possession of the islands, or they will fall into the hands of some one of the European powers. It is not probable that the jealousy of France or England would permit a Russian invasion of the Sandwich Islands under pretence of colonization. They will consequently anticipate this movement, and in doing so, anticipate ourselves."

Arrival of the Niagara.

HALIFAX, Oct. 27th.

The Niagara arrived at 10 o'clock this morning, with dates to the 15th.

The Sultan has announced that if the Russians do not evacuate the principalities within fifteen days, Turkey will consider it as a case of declared war, and act accordingly, but will not cross the Danube. The proclamation is posted on all the mosques. The Sultan has invited the combined fleets up to Constantinople. The Black Sea is free to neutral flags.

The Piedmont gov't had refused to admit M. Foresti as Consul for United States, alleging that he is a deciple of Mazzini.

Corn may be imported free into the papal districts, until January 1854.

It is supposed that the Turkish government will decline the offers of foreign exiles of France, if France and England afford her assistance.

It is rumored that the American Consul at Smyrna, opposed Koszta's removal to America.

Omer Pacha, on the 9th, formally summoned Gortschakoff to evacuate the Ottoman territory, allowing fifteen days, and if the demand is definitely refused, he will commence hostilities at once, in the meantime he will not cross over the Danube.

A levy of 150,000 Turkish troops has been ordered.

The navigation of the Danube and Black Seas has been guaranteed to neutral flags.

The clergy has offered to place 300,000,000 piastres at the Sultan's disposal.

The Sultan tells the foreign Ambassadors that he is desirous of settling the difficulties peaceably, but as his ancestors gained their Empire by the sword, the Turks would perish in support of it. But if fate ordained that, Turkey should fall, another master would put Europe to the sword as they entered it sword in hand.

The Russian troops are active, and General Luders had arrived in camp. The troops are in motion up the river, and 15 battallions of infantry and 32 pieces of artillery had marched through Bucharest.

It was reported that Prince Gortschakoff had annexed the principalities, having formerly notified the Hospodaras that Prince Menshikoff would in future administer the Government. All the Russian officials had left Constantinople, and 30,000 troops, under a French commander, had been sent to the Bosnia frontier to watch the movements of Prince Daniel, of Montenegro, who is again arming.

It was rumored that the Porte had appointed the Hungarian Generals Dembinski and Klapka to high commands, and that the Shah of Persia, by advice of the British Minister, had rejected the overtures of Russia to war against the Turkish government.

Miss Cunningham has been liberated from prison, at Florence.

The Papal government has forbidden the export of grain. Naples is threatened with a scarcity, and the government contemplates purchasing grain.

Arrival of the Arctic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.

The steamer Arctic arrived at her dock at 3 o'clock this afternoon. She brings 220 passengers, and dates from Liverpool to the 19th.

The Times says the Turkish manifesto is one of the strongest and most unanswerable state papers issued during the present century. The Post declares that morally Russia is already defeated, and that she will be materially. Hostilities on the Danube and on the Caspian Sea are inevitable. A despatch from Vienna on the 7th, says that Gen. Gortschakoff had replied to the Turkish summons, that he has no authority to commence hostilities, make peace, or evacuate the principalities. He refuses to take any action in the premises. The Russian subjects in Turkey are placed under Austrian protection. The Turks will allow neutral flags to sail on the Danube until the 20th, and no longer.

Austria and Prussia had recalled their subjects from Turkish service. Agitation begins to manifest itself in Italy; 200 political arrests were made on the 10th.

The Turkish declaration of war, published in full, is a temperate and high spirited document. It does not lay an embargo on Russian ships, and and protects all the rights of commerce. When the Czar heard that Turkey had declared war, he fell into a violent passion, and swore to exterminate her. The fleets were observed preparing to advance to Constantinople.

A battle was fought on the 29th ult., between the Circassians and the Russians—a heavy loss is reported on both sides. The Circassians retired into the mountains.

No action in France—no shipment of troops, but great activity in the navy yards.

Prussia and Austria give indications, though not formally, that they will take a neutral position in the war. The French and English diplomatists think, therefore, that war will be confined to the Turkish frontiers.

Omar Pacha had notified the Russian commanders to clear out of the Principalities before the 25th, or he would commence hostilities. Gen. Raskamatik, of Polish notoriety, is the chief commander of the Russian army in the Principalities.

The Japan Expedition returned from Jeddo Aug. 17th, having met with friendly reception. Commodore Perry had an interview with the Imperial Princes, and had delivered the President's letter, and agreed to call next spring for a reply. The Americans and Japanese parted with mutual presents and expressions of good will.

Liverpool Market.—The Liverpool cotton Market continues steady. Sales for the last three days 21,000 bales. Breadstuffs active and further advanced. Flour sold freely; Baltimore and Philadelphia 35s 6d, held at 36s; Western Canal 34s 6d and 35s; sour flour 31s. Wheat in extensive demand at 2d dearer. Fine white American 10s 4d. Indian Corn quiet. Lard and Cheese steady at recent decline.

Prince Albert the Tool of Russia.

We find the following in the columns of the Detroit Daily Advertiser, and give it to our readers merely as a matter of curiosity, without at all endorsing its correctness:

"The rumor is getting pretty thoroughly spread that the nonentity known as the Queen of England's husband, has been interfering with foreign affairs very much to the advantage and interest of Russia, and very much against the interest of the country that furnishes him with a wife, bed, board and pocket money at the public expense.

The fact that the Queen has made herself unseemly and extremely officious in demanding to see and know the contents of the foreign despatches of late, and that the contents of these despatches where known in the German and Vienna capitals, and sometimes published in the official journals of these cities in advance of their arrival has caused enquiries to be set on foot which has elicited information, fastening on Prince Albert the stigma of being the instrument of the Emperors of Russia and Austria, and that he is the person who furnished the copies of the despatches and communications, the publicity of which has aroused much suspicion.

We sincerely hope that the base treachery of this German Puppet of the House of Saxe Gotha may be thoroughly exposed. If it can be fastened on him, we doubt very much if a firm hold on the Queen's apron strings can save him from such a mob as gave Haynau his just due; for there is nothing so odious to the British nation as treason, subserviency and base ingratitude."

The New York National Democrat says:

"In connection with this affair—and as one of the "mere curiosities of literature"—we may mention that a certain clerk in the Foreign Office of London lately prepared a sixty pages pamphlet showing the connection of Prince Albert with the damaging disclosures made in the German journals; he had the pamphlet printed, and twenty thousand struck off, without, however, issuing any to the public. He then sent one copy of the pamphlet to Prince Albert, and one to Lord Aberdeen—the result was, that Aberdeen paid fifty thousand pounds sterling for the edition, and the author was appointed one of the sub-treasurers at the Cape of Good Hope—where it is the bad hope of the British Cabinet that he may either die naturally, or be killed by the Caffirs.

Medill elected by over sixty thousand majority.—We had put down Medill's majority at about 35,000. We were disposed to "draw it rather mild," out of christian compassion to our opponents. Others, less merciful, had boldly struck for 50,000. But no one, in the highest flight of bragging, had rated it a sixty thousand. Yet such is the case. The official vote in all the counties (except Auglaize, Scioto and Henry) stands thus:

Medill,	144,925
Barrere,	84,370
Medill's maj. over Barrere,	60,555
Lewis,	50,158
Medill's maj. over both,	10,396

The three counties yet to be heard from will probably give Medill an additional 1,200.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Sixty-eight on Joint Ballot.—Lewis Anderson, Democrat, is the Senator elect in the Meigs,—Lawrence, &c., District. One of the best men in Lawrence county. That makes our list complete. The Senate consists of five regular Whigs—five fusionists: the rest Democrats. Democratic majority 15!

There are 15 regular whigs in the House.—Fusionists and Free Soilers, 7; the balance democrats. The majority in the lower house 53;—making a majority of just sixty-eight on joint ballot. There may be some slight errors in this; but we are not in danger of losing the United States Senator on that account.—Ohio Statesman.

Pennsylvania Election.—The State Senate consists of 18 Democrats, 14 Whigs, and 1 native; the House of 70 Democrats, 26 Whigs, and four Natives. In all but 8 counties, the official Democratic majority for Supreme Judge is 37,610; for Auditor General 37,785; for Canal Commissioner 34,745, and for Surveyor General 26,538!

☞ We are daily interrogated something after the following fashion: "What has become of the railroad projects about which there was so much interest manifested a few weeks ago?—Why don't you say something on the subject in your paper?" We now reply, publicly, as we have done privately, that we conceive we have done our whole duty in relation to the contemplated railroads. We have warned our citizens of what we considered the imminent danger of rejecting proposals for uniting with one or more of our sister cities above the Falls, and of accepting their means and influence in making these roads. We did so, honestly believing that this was the surest means of securing these great thoroughfares. But it soon became evident that these opinions of ours did not meet the views of a large and influential class of citizens. It was proclaimed on the streets that we and others were endeavoring to betray the rights and interests of this city into the hands of Louisville, Jeffersonville and Madison—that New Albany could certainly secure our, and probably both the Fort Wayne and Sandusky roads, without aid or cooperation from any quarter. What progress has been made towards accomplishing this most desirable result we are not apprised, but we hope that the most sanguine anticipations of our "all or none" friends will be fully realized—that at least one of the railroads will be built as they propose. We never have and never expect to pen a paragraph affording us more gratification than will the making of such an announcement.—New Albany Ledger.

Important Railroad Arrangements.—Important arrangements have been perfected by A. R. Gilmore, Superintendent of the Rock Island Railroad—J. B. Wyman of the Illinois Central, and E. Keating of the Chicago and Mississippi Railroad, by which passengers will be "put through" from Chicago to St. Louis in twenty hours, and from St. Louis to New York in fifty-six. The arrangement is to take effect on Monday next. There will be two trains a day for St. Louis. The Morning Express will leave this city at eight o'clock, and passengers will arrive in St. Louis at four o'clock next morning. The Evening Express train will leave at eleven o'clock after the arrival of all the trains from the east, so that passengers will not be detained, unless they prefer to wait till next morning. Passengers by this train will arrive in St. Louis the next evening. Seven o'clock in the morning, and eight o'clock in the evening are the times of starting from St. Louis.—Chicago Democratic Press.

The Wabash Valley Railroad.—Those who are concerned are now fully confident that the Wabash Valley Railroad will be speedily built. The towns and counties through which the road will pass, have subscribed large amounts, and individuals have been no wise illiberal in taking stock. At Bloomington, last week, a vote was taken upon the proposition to take $100,000 stock in the corporate capacity of the city. The result was an almost unanimous vote in favor of the subscription. This road will run from Warsaw to the Mississippi, through Bloomington to Lafayette, Indiana, connecting with other roads now terminating at that point. It will pass through a fertile and in many places populous country, having every facility, except railroads, to make it one of the finest portions of the State. At Bloomington, it will cross the Alton and Chicago, and the Central roads, where, it is thought, a large union depot will be erected. That this will be a paying road, is a certainty; therefore, in obtaining the funds necessary to complete the work, there will be no difficulty. The more railroads we have, the better, and every new one is an additional evidence of the States advancement.—Chicago Dem. Press.

American Diplomatists going Abroad.—We understand that the new Minister to France, the Hon. John Y. Mason, and the new Minister to China, the Hon. R. M. McLane, will go out on the 19th in the steamer Humboldt. Mr. McL. goes the overland route. The Hon. Carroll Spence, United States Minister to Constantinople, leaves on the 2d proximo in the naval steamer Saranac, from Norfolk.

Gov. Medill, in his proclamation for thanksgiving, wishes our people to give thanks that we have had the last year "no civil discord." The Governor is a sly one. More is meant than meets the ear. Does he mean that the last election was so unanimous that no discord existed in Ohio, or does he think that the discord, if any, of the whigs and free soilers was not civil.—Statesman.

The Removal of Bronson.—Last evening, the Democratic Young Men's Committee held a special meeting at Tammany Hall, and adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the removal of Greene C. Bronson from the office of Collector, meets with our most hearty approval; that the insubordination of those who have arrayed themselves in opposition to the national administration, demands no less a rebuke, than that we feel our confidence in the President of our choice renewed and invigorated by the Jackson-like firmness with which he has vindicated the politics of his administration.

Resolved, That we take this occasion to renew our expressions of attachment and devotion to the State Administration, and the ticket nominated at Syracuse, headed by our distinguished fellow citizen, J. A. Verplank, Secretary of State.—N. Y. Post.

Another Arrest of Counterfeiters.

Our readers will remember that a few days since, two men, named Blessing and Sans, were arrested in Dayton, by U. S. Deputy Marshal Trader, on charge of having in their possession and passing a quantity of bogus money of every denomination. They had a preliminary examination before U. S. Commissioner Smith, and held answer. While confined in jail, in default of the required security, Blessing divulged to the officers of Dayton that he had rented his farm,—situated between Dayton and Xenia to those wholesale manufactures of bogus money, who with their families were to take possession this week.

He also assured the officers that these men had been largely engaged in the manufacture of bogus money in Green county, where they had been residing the last year, and would no doubt have with them all the implements for the making of the spurious coin and much of the bogus money.

Receiving a full description of the men, Marshal Hitchcock and U. S. Deputy Marshal Trader of Dayton, and officer De Haven of this city, started for blessing's residence at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. As they approached the house they noticed several faggot fires burning, and four large wagons standing in the front yard, and several persons busily engaged unloading them.—The officers watched their movements, and saw them carry from the wagons small boxes of tools. They cautiously advanced and caught the three men answering the description given by Blessing. After securing them with cords, they commenced a search, and found dies of all kinds,—batteries, pots and metal coin of every denomination, finished and unfinished, and all the necessary tools for carrying on an extensive counterfeiting business.

The four teamsters who, in the opinion of the officers, were ignorant of the character of the persons they were moving, were not arrested. The prisoners and the tools were then placed in one of the wagons and conveyed to Dayton and lodged in jail. The amount of counterfeit money found on them ready for circulation, amounted to over $200. The parties were brought before U. S. Commissioner Smith, yesterday morning, who held them each in $2,000 bail to answer at the Circuit Court. Their names we did not learn. They are strangers to the place.

DIED,—On the 1st instant, SARAH ELLEN, daughter of F. J. and Ellen Frank, aged 1 year and 10 months

—In this city, at the residence of her mother, on Monday morning, Oct. 31st, Miss SOPHIA J. HENDERSON, aged 22 years.

What sorrowing, what sad mournfulness, what deep-toned feeling, what heart-felt solemnity has her departure to the world of spirits produced in our midst. The mourners go about the streets in search of comforters; friends who have so often been cheered by her smile and rendered happy by the charms thereof, ask of themselves how it is possible that she has left us so suddenly! A large concourse of relations and friends mourn and deplore her loss. Though her body moulders in the grave, her memory remains imperishable in the hearts of those who knew her. The noble disposition of which she was possessed, enabled her to exercise a laudable influence over those with whom she associated. Her benevolence towards her companions prompted her to make sacrifices of her own convenience, that she might thereby promote their interest and happiness.—In every sphere in life to which she was called to act, she distinguished herself for zeal, integrity, firmness, and excellence.

Lamented Sophia, thy mission is ended,
And thou hast returned to thy home in the skies,
Thy memory is cherished, thy virtues commended,
Thy kindness, thy mildness, thy sweetness, we prize;
Thy remembrance is grateful to all who e'er knew thee,
And sheds a sweet influence, placid and mild,
But this chafing world, with its selfishness blinded,
Was not a fit place, and God called home his child. A FRIEND.

Composition Cement Roofing.

THE subscriber has made arrangement and procured the necessary materials for covering buildings with the popular Composition and Gravel Roofing. This system of Roofing has given universal satisfaction wherever it has been introduced; and is rapidly superceding all others. Its great advantages of durability, cheapness, tightness, and perfect safety from fire recommend it to all persons erecting good buildings. Though fully equal to tin in every respect, the cost is less than one half—but little more in fact than pine shingles.

For a specimen the public are invited to examine the new 4 story Cabinet Shop of J. M. Miller.

The poor fellow was a disgusting object of pity. He was a mass of sores. The other negroes could not remain in the same place with him. None of the Doctors could do anything for him. FEMALE COMPLAINTS, as Weakness, general debility, Irregularity, Obstructions, Swelling of the Feet, Limbs, Joints, &c., caused by weakness; also LUNG and THROAT COMPLAINTS, as Cold, Cough, Asthma, Consumption, &c.; also Dropsy.

Having made use of the Compound Syrup of Yellow Dock Root, prepared by C. MORSE & Co., either ourselves or in our families and finding it to be a very salutary and effectual preparation, we can most cheerfully recommend it to the public as a very valuable medicine.

E. Rogers, Esq. Cashier National Bank, Providence, R. I.; A. W. Spencer, Esq. Cashier Lime Rock Bank do do do; Rev. Williams Phillips, Rev. J. B. Richmond, C. S. Jones, editor Providence Gen. Adv.; Wm. Field, M. W. G. M., Cyrus Fisher, M. E. H. P., James Hutchinson, G. S. Dea, V. J. Bates, Doct. Benj. Coffey, and one hundred others of the most respectable residents of Providence.

This certifies that I have for a number of years been acquainted with the composition and mode of manufacture of Morse's Compound Syrup of Yellow Dock Root. I have also been acquainted with its modus operandi in disease, and can say that in all respects it is admirably calculated to remedy that class of Diseases for which it was designed. It is especially valuable in LIVER COMPLAINT and all its attendant symptoms. It gives tone to healthy action the Liver, removes Torpor and Inactivity of this ORGAN, and stimulates healthy action in all the system. As a DEPURATOR or purifier of the Blood it has no superior.

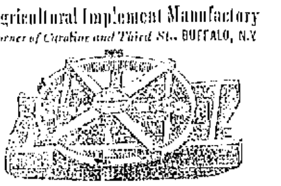
PAPER HANGINGS—A large and beautiful assortment, just received C. L. HILL.

Agricultural Implement Manufactory

Corner of Carolina and Third St., BUFFALO, N.Y.



Pitt's Patent Separator.

IMPROVED DOUBLE PINION HORSE POWER,

Corn and Cob Mills, &c.

I HEREBY give notice that since the extension of the Patent Right on my machine for threshing and cleaning grain, I have removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where I have permanently located and erected a large establishment for the future manufacture of the above machines.

The Separator has been enlarged, improved and rendered more convenient and durable in all respects, while the Horse Power, for strength, ease, durability and cheapness of repair, is not surpassed by any in the United States. This Power is warranted to stand the full strength of eight horses; also to give as much effective or useful power when driven by one or two horses as any other Horse Power, whether constructed on the endless chain or lever principle. It was put on trial at the great exhibition of Horse Powers and Threshing Machines at Geneva in July, 1852, where it received the New York State Agricultural Society's first premium.

My new ones will thresh and clean from three to five hundred bushels of wheat per day, and other grain in proportion. Two hundred of the above machines are for sale at the Agricultural works of the subscriber in this city, all warranted to be a better article than can be purchased at any other shop, and if they do not on trial prove to be so, I will take them off the hand of the purchasers at the price they may pay me for them.

I further notify all persons who are purchasing Horse Powers to be used in California and Oregon, that I will hold them accountable for any infringements on the rights secured to me by Letters patent to the above machines, as I am manufacturing a Horse Power and Separator expressly for that section.

All orders for the above machines, hereafter addressed to John A. Pitts, Buffalo, New York, will receive prompt attention. JOHN A. PITTS.

COMPARET, HUBBELL, & Co.,
are Agents for the sale of the above machines, Fort Wayne. Persons wishing to purchase can see them by calling at our Warehouse. 51 tf
